MASS. MILLS ON THREE DAYS A WEEK

Oil Committee to Question Sinclair

FIRE DEPARTMENT CONFRONTED BY BIG WIRE PROGRAM

Many Fire Alarm Wires to Be Placed Underground—
Work Now in Progress in 'Highlands District—
New Cable Stations Installed

By the end of the coming summer all fire alarm wires in the Highlands district and out Andover street as far as Clark road and in North, Mansur and Fairmount streets, as far as Fairmount will be underground in ducts already placed and waiting for the cables to be laid.

The wire program ahead of the department this year is the biggest in its history and when completed will constitute an important forward step toward making ready for the installation of a new signal system whenever the city government feels financially strong enough to produce the necessary money. The estimated cost now is in the vicinity of $25,000.

Fire department officials said today that the underground work now in progress in the Highlands is one of the most important steps ever taken and not only will expedite the location of trouble spots, but will minimize the chances of collapse in winter when heavy storms raise havoc with overhead wires.

New cable stations in the nature of large boxes on short black poles are being installed in upper Westford st., the one at Wilder street being set up yesterday. In a day or two another connection will be made through a box at Stevens street and so on to the last box at the end of the car line. The Highlands Village section also will get underground extent for a short loop at the old Shaw machine plant. The underground also will include the 'Marginal street district.

TO CURTAIL PRODUCTION

Massachusetts Mills Returns to Working Schedule of Three Days a Week

The Massachusetts cotton mills will close tonight for the balance of the week, thus reverting to a three-day working schedule of manufacturing. Unlabeled further notice the plant will run only on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week instead of the first four days which has recently been the rule.

Word reached textile concern representatives at Trades and Labor hall that the curtailment would become effective tonight.

The blanket mills, so-called, have been hard hit by spring trade conditions in many New England textile cities where both cotton and part-cotton goods are manufactured.

THE DAUGHERTY INVESTIGATION

Today's Session Brief Because Sen. Wheeler Was Confined to Home by Cold

Galveston Lawyer Says Justice Dept. Remiss in Prosecuting Lotteries

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Daugherty investigating committee had a brief, drab session today because Senator Wheeler, the committee "prosecutor" had a bad cold and remained at home.

Will A. Orr, former private secretary to Governor Whitman of New York, was waiting to be questioned further about the film "deals" and whiskey "deals" on which he testified yesterday, but the committee turned aside from Orr to hear briefly again Maco Stewart, a Galveston, Tex., lawyer, who complained in his testimony yesterday that the department of justice had been remiss in prosecuting lotteries and to hear briefly also T. D. Hawkins, a Texas postoffice inspector.

Attorney General Daugherty's counsel brought out on cross examination that the government had been prosecuting the concerns Stewart complained of, but the witness insisted they had not been prosecuted under the lottery law, as he contended they should have been. The attorney general counsel announced that they did not wish to cross-examine Orr and he was excused indefinitely.

The hearing will resume at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

WILL REPAIR $15,000 FIRE DAMAGE

F. P. Crawford, owner of the Crawford building in Merrimack street, that was badly damaged by fire on the evening of the 10th, today took out a permit for repairs from the city building inspector, including an estimated cost of $15,000. The entire roof will be rebuilt and the building will be subject to general restoration along its original lines.

CITY SOLICITOR IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT

City Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds appeared in the United States district court in Boston yesterday for the city in the action brought against it by the Hassan Paving Co. in its attempt to recover royalties from the city dating back to 1910. As no counsel appeared for the Hassan interests, the case was indefinitely postponed. The Bennett mandamus case has been set forward to Friday morning of this week.

NOMINATION PAPERS FILED

Nomination papers of candidates for the presidential primaries have been filed at the office of the election commission at city hall for Governor Channing Cox, and the rest of the state republican delegation; Francis M. Ducey and Joseph Pollack of Boston, running at-large, and for Andrew E. Barrett, Katherine F. McCarthy, John W. Daly and Bernard Golden running in the fifth district, James H. Gilbride of Lowell. In another district candidates for the democratic convention who took out papers today.

SAYS BUDGET DELIBERATIONS NOT FARCICAL

"I do not agree with other members of the city council that our budget deliberations are farcical," said Council President James J. Gallagher today. "The charter does not leave the council powerless. We have the power of reduction and also the power of recommendation to the mayor and it is only fair to presume that his honor will be very glad to give consideration to anything the council proposes."

President Gallagher said further that he believed the council should not over the budget with a great deal of care for the purpose of picking out things on which conferences might be held with the mayor.

"The council at least should do its part in studying the budget and take advantage of the power of recommendation given up by the finance laws," he declared.

WILD DISORDERS IN HONDURAS

167 Sailors and Nine Officers

From Cruiser Milwaukee

Rushed to Tegucigalpa

Landing Force Requested for

Protection of American

Consular Offices

WASHINGTON, March 19.—A landing force of 167 sailors and nine officers from the cruiser Milwaukee, at Amapala, Honduras, was being rushed today from that port to Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, where wild disorders prevail.

The landing force was asked for by American Minister Morales for the protection of the American legation and consular offices, fired upon by drunken soldiers over which the Honduran ministry had lost all control.

Consular advisers from Tegucigalpa also said many innocent persons were being shot down and looting was rampant.

Losses estimated at $100,000 have been suffered, principally by British, Chinese and American merchants.

Arrangements have been completed by which the American naval detachment will be passed through the lines of revolutionary forces attacking Tegucigalpa.

State department officials said the sending of the detachment had been approved here on the ground that it was vitally necessary to protect American lives and property.

DISASTERS HIT JAPANESE NAVY

800-Ton Submarine 43 Went Down After Collision With Warship—44 Perish

Dirigible Caught Fire and Fell, Killing Five—Body of Commander Found

SASEBO, Japan, March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The 800-ton submarine No. 43 of the Japan navy collided today with the warship Tatsuta during minor maneuvers and sank with four officers and 19 men in 28 fathoms of water, 10 miles outside Sasebo harbor. Several hours later the navy office ascertained that while attempts at rescue were proceeding, there was little hope there would be any survivors.

The submarine went down suddenly after the collision.

The 43, constructed two years ago is the second underwater craft of the Japanese navy to be lost in the past seven months, another having sunk off Kobe last August.

Sasebo is a naval port on the east coast of the island of Kyushu, just south of the island of Honshu, largest of the Japanese archipelago.

Dirigible Falls in Flames

TOKIO, March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—A naval dirigible caught fire and fell today in Haraaki Prefecture, northeast of Tokio, killing the crew of five men. The body of the commander was the only one found, the other four having leaped from the blazing airship before it plunged into a forest.

The dirigible was on the way from the Kasumigaura naval aviation school to the Yokosuka naval base.

Naval circles today moved by the loss of the submarine 43 with 14 men aboard, were further distressed by the dirigible accident only a few hours later.

TO ABOLISH MIDDLESEX GRADE CROSSING

A meeting of the Lowell chamber of commerce "Middlesex grade crossing committee," so called, has been called for a 7 o'clock this afternoon, at chamber headquarters.

The question of abolishing several railroad grade crossings in the heart of the city—not a new Lowell topic, but always a vital one to local street-travelers—is coming up at this afternoon's meeting. It is understood that a new campaign will be started if enough public support can be secured, and active members of the committee named above, believe it can be.

The problem of abolishing the Middlesex street grade crossing near the railroad station on that thoroughfare, has been discussed and debated since the year 1920, when the first "Middlesex grade crossing committee" was organized. Since that time, changes have come in the committee personnel.

Joseph Butler, treasurer of the Shaw Stocking company, is now chairman of the committee which is to hold its first meeting of 1924 this afternoon.

Frank Wilinski, alleged murderer of William Blumsted at 12 Bent's court, on the afternoon of February 18, was again called to district court this morning. He has been indicted by the grand jury for murder, but the local police have not yet been officially notified of the indictment. A ruling said: "Mr. Taylor came down and employed a Mr. Wilson, the president's

G. O. P. CONVENTION SURCHARGED WITH STORIES OF OIL DEALS

Tiffin Gilmore Tells of Report Oil Operators Ready to Support Wood if Permitted to Pick Cabinet
Member—Sinclair to Be Called

WASHINGTON, March 19.—With James G. Hadden, one of the mystery men of the oil and Daugherty inquiries waiting to testify, the oil committee today drew up plans to summon Harry E. Sinclair before it and his former secretary, G. O. Wahlberg, after Darden has testified, probably this week, and then put on the stand as the first witness of today's session Tiffin Gilmore, deputy secretary of state of Ohio.

One story was, Gilmore said, that all inquiry into stories of an "oil deal" in the 1920 campaign, Gilmore was asked about his connection with that campaign. He said he attended the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920, as a worker for General Wood.

Called as a part of the committee's inquiry into stories of an "oil deal" in the 1920 campaign, Gilmore was asked about his connection with that campaign. He said he attended the republican national convention at Chicago in 1920, as a worker for General Wood.

"Stories of Oil Deals"

The atmosphere at the Chicago republican convention was surcharged with stories of "oil deals," the committee was told by Gilmore.

In a conversation he had after the convention with Carmi Thompson, an Ohio republican leader, who was the nominee of his party for governor in 1922, Gilmore said there was some discussion of a land claim Thompson was interested in.

"What land did you refer to when you asked Carmi Thompson if he had the land?" asked Senator Bureau, republican, New Mexico.

"The whole air was so surcharged I cannot tell. My impression was that it was some land adjacent to Bakersfield, I had never heard of Teapot Dome at that time."

"Did you gather the impression that Mr. Hadden (Jake Hadden), republican national committeeman for Oklahoma, had anything to do with it?"

"I do not know what oil companies were in it. I do think, however, that a young man named Motter told me Hadden was mixed up in it."

"You really knew nothing of these matters except gossip on the street?"

"No man who knew ever told you?"

"No, sir."

Asked by Senator Walsh if he knew what reply General Wood had made, Gilmore said:

Wood termed it "Shady Deal"

"It was told me walked up and down at his hotel and said it was a 'shady deal,' that he would have nothing to do with it, and that they would have to defeat him."

With that the witness was excused and the committee called James Darden, a man of many adventures, whose name has been interwoven with disclosures in both the Daugherty and Teapot Dome inquiries. Process servers had reported failure to locate him for a month, but he denied that he had tried to avoid service of the committee's subpoena. He said he was away from home a good deal, but had seen by the newspaper that he was sought and immediately had notified W. J. Burns of the department of justice.

Darden testified

Darden said he had known President Harding a long time and had become intimate with him during the pre-convention campaign in 1920.

"Did you aid in bringing about his nomination?"

"I did everything I could."

"Did you raise any money?"

"Among my friends, some of my democratic friends, including some in North Carolina."

"You know Joseph Hall of New York?"

"I do. I met him during the Harding campaign. He came to see us and wanted to help. Mr. Daugherty was there."

Darden said he also became intimate with Attorney General Daugherty during the Harding campaign.

Senator Walsh took the inquiry to Teapot Dome and Darden launched into a long recital of how he got into the Salt Creek field as well as in the naval reserve. He said there were 160 acres in Teapot Dome, and twice as much outside. It was during the Wilson administration, Darden said, that he took the matter up with the interior department.

Asserting that a Mr. Taylor had decided to contest with him his right to the land on Teapot Dome, Darden said: "Mr. Taylor came down and employed a Mr. Wilson, the president's

CHARITY DEPARTMENT

Ordinance to Divide Charity

Department Likely to Cause Much Discussion

The ordinance which aims to divide the charity department and establish the Chestnut Street hospital as a distinct institution with a superintendent in charge, will be fought out on the floor of the city council chamber, according to statements made today by councilors who favor it.

The ordinance came out of the ordinance committee last night in the nature of an adverse report, and the matter was laid on the table on motion of Councilor Frederick A. Sadler, but he will call for it at the next regular meeting and urge its adoption.

The vote for and against the measure will pretty nearly follow party lines, although President James J. Gallagher is opposed to it and will cast his vote along with Councilors Stearns, Christian, Gessert, Lamborn, Chadwick and Dickson, who are in opposition.

If Councilor Sadler can obtain the support of the other council members he will muster eight votes, or just enough to put the ordinance over, but before it comes to the voting stage it is likely to cause as much discussion as any other measure that has been before the body for many months.

COOLIDGE WINS IN NO. DAKOTA

Maintains More Than Two to One Lead Over Johnson
in Presidential Primaries

La Follette Runs Third as Sticker Candidate — Mc-
Adoo Unopposed

FARGO N. D., March 19.—(By the Associated Press)—President Calvin Coolidge maintained more than a two to one lead over Senator Hiram Johnson of California and Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin for the republican presidential preference endorsement on the compilation early today of incomplete and unofficial returns from yesterday's state-wide primary.

The first scattered returns were mostly from cities and towns in 35 of the state's 25 counties.

Most of the rural precincts remain to be heard from.

The totals of Senators Johnson and La Follette were swelled as the rural precincts began to report and Johnson headquarters here expressed confidence that more complete returns would swing the tide in his favor.

Nevertheless, Coolidge supporters declared the president would have a plurality when the final figures were in although not so great as the initial reports would indicate.

The vote polled by Senator La Follette was noted with satisfaction by his backers, especially because of the fact that his name was withheld from the ballot at his request. Stickers were posted on the ballots by his adherents.

Figures from 243 precincts of 2058 in the state gave: Coolidge, 14,271; Johnson, 6088, and La Follette 4276.

William G. McAdoo was unopposed for the democratic presidential preference endorsement.

McAdoo returns gave Harrison Garner of St. Thomas, a Coolidge adherent a two to one lead for republican national committee man. For democratic national committee man, P. H. Perry had a narrow margin over R. H. Murphy.

George Stewart Files Suit as Aftermath of Fist Fight
Last August

NEW YORK, March 19.—Ralph Ince, motion picture director, has been served with papers in a $50,000 damage suit, filed against him by his brother-in-law, George Stewart, brother of Anita Stewart, film actress, as the aftermath of a fist fight between them last August. It became known today.

The fight, Stewart charges, occurred in a lonely spot on the Boston post-road while he, Ince, and several others were motoring to New York after having made the rounds of Westchester county roadhouses. Ince is alleged to have urged the driver to stop the car and to have attacked Stewart to attack. The fight followed. Stewart said he received injuries, including a fractured skull, which landed him in a hospital for three weeks after the encounter.

LONDON. PILGRIMS HEAR NEW YORK SPEECH

NEW YORK, March 19.—The best public speech in this country of Sir Esmé Howard, newly arrived ambassador from Great Britain, delivered before the Pilgrims of the United States, last night, and broadcast by radio, was heard clearly by the London Pilgrims. The British members gathered at the Carlton club for the occasion, heard practically every word spoken by the American members at the Hotel Waldorf, according to radiograms received here.

Sir Esmé said he believed America would "work for permanent peace, upon which a large measure of her own prosperity depends, and not leave Europe to stew in her own juice."

VASSAR HEAD TALKS ON GIRL SUICIDE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 19.—

Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar college, is making public reference to the suicide of Miss Mariel Dennison, of Bloomsfield, N. J., last night, said:

"How great a proportion of the social there is in the life at Vassar," said Dr. MacCracken, "this unfortunate death has brought home to all of us. No incident of its kind has occurred at Vassar for 19 years, and over 6000 students have graduated in that time. Somehow the sacrifice of this life is up to us. In some way we failed, and did not give our fellow student support that would have given her that greater courage. We must not forget that we are all mutually responsible, one to another, and that in our community life we should go along helping and being helped."

Lowell Man Missing

have been taken suddenly ill, as he has already suffered one shock. When he left home yesterday morning, however, he appeared to be in his usual health and it was thought that he would return to his home within an hour or so. When he failed to return late in the afternoon, his daughter began to fear for his safety and finally asked the help of the police in locating him.

Mr. Howitt is of slight build, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, with white hair and blue eyes. He wore a black derby hat and a black overcoat when he left home yesterday.

The Lowell police have notified the Boston police and police in nearby cities to be on the look-out for a man answering this description.

Increase in Death Toll.

which are separated into the following classifications: Murders, two; suicides, two; automobile fatalities, three; street car fatalities, one; other accidents, two.

Last year in Lowell, there were 14 deaths attributed to automobiles while in the previous year, the number was six. All three of the auto fatalities of this year have occurred within the city limits and the astounding fact is that only a small proportion of the automobiles owned in this city are yet being used daily. The records at the police station show that the majority of the 14 fatalities from this cause which occurred last year happened during the summer and early fall months. By comparison of these figures it will be seen that if the automobile fatalities continue this year on an average proportionate with the increase of the number of machines on the road over last year, the total death toll in this city for the year will be higher than ever before in the history of the city.

Murders and suicides come in waves, according to the police, and no comparison can be made, but in the case of automobile and street car accidents a comparison can easily be made.

Only a strict enforcement of traf-ic ordinances by the police and that the police will take every precaution of necessary precautions by sible precaution to keep Lowell out of pedestrians during the coming months the list of cities where the number can keep the toll of automobile and of auto accidents is appalling by in-street car accidents down anywhere structing the police to enforce the mo-near last year's number. Supt. Atkins for vehicle regulations to the let-son is significant of this fact and says for.

FEATURE AT STRAND FOR THREE DAYS STARTING THURSDAY

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND
Hall Caine's immortal story, "The Eternal City," said to be the greatest love romance written in recent years, will be shown for the first time today at the Strand theatre. Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love, Richard Bennett and others are in the cast, and their combined efforts help make the offering one of the most meritorious offerings that the screen has given the local playgoers in a long time. The remainder of the program is rounded out with one of the Chaplin classics, "The Adventurer," and Baby Peggy in one of her best comedies, "Peg of the Mountain." The program is an excellent one and should not be missed.

How many wives whose husbands turn to drink or other women stop to consider the fact that they themselves are directly responsible for such a condition? Constance Talmadge asks the question. It isn't very often that a woman can be brought, even momentarily, to consider this question from the man's point of view. But Constance has just had an impressive lesson during the filming of some of the episodes of "Dulcy," the glitzy tale of wit and music. Bert Rome and Henry Dunn aren't a whit behind in their position of music, interpreted with a sense of wit and wit and wit. The picture is "Let Not Man Put Asunder," with Lou Tellegen and Pauline Frederick underlined.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performance will be given this afternoon and evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "The Stranger," starring Betty Compson in a picture adapted from a John Galsworthy novel.

She was the rare of rare broadway, a mystery woman whose secret was deep as the soul of Russia that lay hidden in her eyes. She was Olga Farnova, beautiful, luscious, desired by men.

Of all the men who paid homage to fascinating Farnova, she loved her so sincerely, so passionately as Eric van Corland, the son of an old Knickerbocker family. So at last she succumbed to his entreaties, gave up her dancing career and married him, leaving the blood of Russian nobility in her veins. Many were going to be very happy.

But the past is not dead to the living and out of Farnova's past, like a hideous spectre of a nightmare, came Kavinoff, the man with a scarred face, unfeeling, unforgotten. On the same ship that bore him from Russia was the peasant girl, Zia, coming to this great, strange country to find her sister.

There's the setting for "Fashion Row," the new Mae Murray picture which opens a three days engagement at the Merrimack Square tomorrow afternoon. "Fashion Row" is decidedly different from other Mae Murray pictures in that it shows the popular star in a dual role. It is just as lavishly produced as usual. You have seen Mae Murray at her merriest and you have seen her at the butterfly of a Mae Murray like the star of "Fashion Row." In the role of two sisters, one the tragic heroine of a Broadway play, and the other a caged Russian peasant girl, Mae Murray is amazing. She displays a wealth of rich emotions and dances an exquisite dance before. In the supporting cast are Earle Foxe, Freeman Wood and Elmo Lincoln, all well known screen stars.

The other big attraction for the week-end is Herbert Rawlinson, one of screen's most popular stars, in "The Victor," a picture of action and romance. Will Rogers in "Hustling Hank," one of his best comedies; the Boston Post latest prize reel, "Neighbor of the Wire," and the latest international news.

HALLO THEATRE

The Wednesday Night Professional Tryouts at the Hallo are becoming more popular each week as can be seen by the crowds which are enjoying these fine vaudeville acts, for that's just what they are, real vaudeville artists. For those who are not satisfied in the crowd which is explained that every Wednesday night at the Hallo in addition to the big regular picture program, four big acts are given in the evening. An unusually good program has been arranged for tonight so make it a point to get in early in order to avoid disappointment of not getting seats. The picture which will be shown for the last time tonight are Heat Gibson in "Double Dealing" and Clara Kimball Young in "Cordelia the Magnificent."

Now if any of us have failed to try something only to learn that "You Can't Get Away With It," disregard the conventionality and eventually the world finds out about it. Dely they only and the world condemn. Taking this general theme as its basis a picture has been produced by William Fox, from the story by Gouverneur Morris, under the vernacular title, "You Can't Get Away With It," opening for the first time in Lowell this picture will be shown at the Hallo for three days starting Thursday.

Forsy Harmon who has become famous since his portrayal of Mark Sable in "If Winter Comes," has the leading role in the new picture and by odd coincidence, his part is similar to the one that made his name known throughout the country. As Mark Sable, he appeared as the unhappy husband, hungry for love, who finds the girl he actually does love. The same things occur in "You Can't Get Away With It." Leading support in the cast are Malcolm McDowell, Barbara Tennant, Clarence Selwyn and Charles Cruz.

The story concerns a wealthy girl who suddenly finds herself cast adrift on her own. She takes a department store job and finds it beyond her ability. The inevitable offer comes from her employer, luxury, love and idleness, in exchange for the world's respect. She accepts. But "You Can't Get Away With It." She couldn't, nor could he. It's a corking good story, advance notices say, and the producers promise that it has been given every element at their command to make it as nearly perfect as a play on the screen.

"You Can't Get Away With It," when first shown to New York audiences who are considered "show also" in every respect, created a sensation and was acclaimed as one of the finest pictures on the life ever made.

"When the Desert Calls," the companion feature with a cast including the prominent stage star, Violet Heming, Sheldon Lewis and Robert Frazer is billed as a romance of the burning sands and it is all in that. It is a desert picture without any "shells" and one that will please.

A Fox Imperial comedy is also on this splendid picture bill which is sure to justify the theatre to capacity the latter half of the week.

The Paint That Will Make Any Floor Beautiful

SOME floors are beautiful in themselves, but all floors, old or new, can be made beautiful with a glossy coat of paint that hides the old, worn surface, or new unattractive surface perfectly.

Devoe Floor Paint is easy to apply, is spot-resisting, dries rapidly and is hard enough to protect the floor against a great deal of vigorous wear. Its coat is not brittle and does not crack, check or peel, but wears down gradually and evenly to the end.

Why Many Women Give Much Thought to This Question

Every woman will admit that the most important ingredient for cake-making is the shortening she uses.

It is because of this, and the thought given to the matter, that Mazola has taken the place of butter in so many homes.

A housewife writes: "One day I was making a cake for supper and discovered I had no butter to use for shortening. I tried Mazola, which is always in our kitchen for salad dressings, and I have never used any other shortening for cakes since that day."

"My cakes are now better grained, light as a feather and never crumble."

"Of course, Mazola costs me less than butter, and I use 1/4 to 1/2 less than amount named for butter."

That's the story about Mazola for shortening in the proverbial "nut-shell."

Yet, back of this growing popularity of Mazola for shortening is a very pleasant thought:

The source of Mazola is as pure, appetizing and wholesome as this delicious oil is itself. If you like "corn-on-the-cob" you can't help liking Mazola. For this pure cooking and salad oil is made from the hearts of full-ripened corn—America's Greatest Cereal.

When you think of cake-making, think of Mazola—use it once and you will never go back to using expensive butter.

AN IMPORTANT REMINDER

"Mazola is as delicious and good to eat as the corn from which it comes."

trackage of the Lowell division in the tap shape.

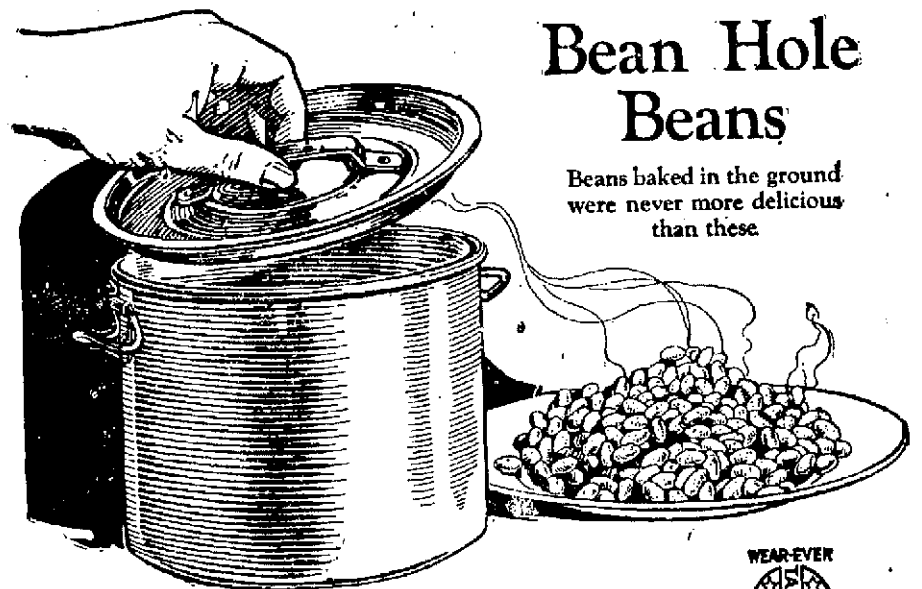

To be sure, the first gangs will not be large, numbering in all not more than 75 men, but it is an assured fact that when the street railway track gangs start on their seasonal work the hands of winter have loosened their grip on the city.

The first work to be undertaken by these men will be the replacement of worn ties and damaged rails on the Billerica, Lawrence, Chelmsford Centre and Lakeview lines. Following closely on the heels of the track gang will come the finishers, the men who operate the grinding and welding machines and with the completion of their work on the rails and road bed, passengers on these lines will be assured of a smooth comfortable ride.

Following the completion of this repair work, the gauge will be augmented considerably and the first new work started. What this work will be depends upon what streets the street department starts work upon first. Among the important jobs scheduled for the year are the replacement with a double rail of the double rail on Chelmsford street from Waverly street to as far as the street department puts in a smooth paved roadway, the replacement of the double rail on Bridge street from Seventh street to a point as far as the street department puts in a new road; and the replacement of the double rail on Lakeview avenue from West street to Allen street.

The Operation I Avoided—

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN
MIDDLE, ILL.

IF there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening.

Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable.

Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:

SIDEJIL, ILLINOIS.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all times but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even let the bed-clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years but not so badly until the last 18 months, and had become so rundown that I could not do any work and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help and the doctor told me that an operation was all there was left for me. I would not consent to that so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house and when my two little girls reach womanhood I shall advise them to take it."

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. No. 2, Sidejil, Illinois.

Another Operation Avoided

DAYTON, OHIO.—"I was sick for eight weeks and had three doctors. They told me I would have to be operated upon before I would be any better. My sister told me about the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In one week's time I began to feel better. I took seven bottles of it and also some of the Liver Pills and used your Sanative Wash and I soon gained my health. I recommend your medicines to all women who feel badly and have trouble. This kind and I will answer all letters sent to me by women."—MRS. GRACE B. GILLIAM, 274 Valley Street, Dayton, Ohio.

CHAMPIONSHIP CLAIM BY HOSE COMPANY 8

Hose Company No. 8, located at the fire station at Race and Merrimack streets, claims the city record for laying and bringing into action a 150 foot section of hose.

Yesterday, while Lt. John Ambrose, fire drill instructor, held a stop watch, this company under Capt. Charles Stackpole laid 150 feet of hose, from a hose wagon, attached it to a hydrant and put it into action on the second floor of the fire house, all in 22 seconds flat.

Continuing their drill, they uncoupled the middle section of hose, which theoretically had burst, and put in a new section and again had the hose in action, this later evolution taking 28 seconds and making a total for the complete drill of 42 seconds.

Lt. Ambrose is proud of the boys up at Hose 8 but believes some of the other companies will soon take the record away from them for several hose companies are practicing daily.

Fire drills are conducted at least once each week in each fire house in the city, one shift being under the supervision of Lt. Ambrose and the other under District Chief Crowley. Since the weather has become mild enough to permit of outdoor drills the firemen have got into the spirit of competition and insist that they be timed in all their evolutions. At the rate the "boys" are going now, Lt. Ambrose believes some sort of a contest will have to be held to determine which company is the best. If the spirit of competition is kept up, Lt. Ambrose believes the Lowell fire department will soon be at the top of the list for efficiency in handling their apparatus.

NATIVES PREFER BULLETS TO BALLOTS IN MEXICO

BY BOB DORMAN
N.E.A. Service Writer

VELLA CRUZ, Mexico, March 15.—Why has Mexico so many revolutions?

At the present moment the Balkans of America are finishing their presidential primary, with bullets cast instead of ballots.

The returns are about all in—the government seems to have been the winner.

But behind it all, this selecting presidents with bullets instead of with ballots—there is a reason.

And that reason is—Indians.

For the population of Mexico is essentially Indian.

Eighty-five per cent are of Indian and mixed blood, with the Indian traits predominating.

And the Indian has never with any great degree of success accepted the white man's civilization.

To cross the border into Mexico is to turn back the clock of time 200 years—in some ways.

From modern Pullmans running on a modern railway one looks out upon a land cultivated as it was in centuries past.

Oxen hooked to a forked stick plow the earth.

Water is drawn by hand in buckets from wells in order to irrigate the fields.

Of course the big estates under the management of the foreigner use the most modern agricultural implements.

But the natives do not like modern implements.

Take the case of the Santa Inez ranch near Oaxaca.

Two carloads of the most modern agricultural implements were installed under the urge of an American salesman. The wages of the workers were doubled. New houses of wood were constructed for them.

A year later the American returned, thinking that with the showing this ranch must have made under progressive management, he would be able to make large sales in the neighboring ranches.

He found the modern implements, broken and rusted, stored in a barn.

The wages were back to normal and the workers were once more living in the brush shacks to which they were accustomed.

They had deliberately wrecked the new implements; the larger wages had caused them to lay off as soon as they had earned the amount to which they were accustomed; and the nice, new wooden houses were gratefully received as it saved them the labor of obtaining firewood from the woods.

Extreme, maybe—but typical.

The Indian is by hereditary aversion to labor. He prefers to hunt and fish.

The accumulation of wealth, the provision against old age, the ambition to rise above his fellows, have no part in his makeup.

With the country at peace under an imitation of civilized government, he must work in order to live.

But in a state of war, with freedom to steal and loot, with his support coming from the country of which he lives, his life is an ideal one. He takes his woman to war with him, to do his cooking, to do the chores that must be done.

He is again the warrior, with no duty except to fight and to amuse himself.

Hence he is easily led to take the warpath. It means freedom from work—from civilized duties that irk him.

He follows some leader, it doesn't matter whom. If captured, he joins the victor. He isn't fighting for a principle—just because he loves fighting, because it frees him from the necessity of work.

A Greater Lowell and A Greater Cherry & Webb Co. Store

THE four pictures shown in this advertisement will convey to you in progressive form an idea of the growth and progress of Cherry & Webb's. The pictures illustrate more clearly than words could tell the story. You will note the store of 1890, in which this institution first became identified with the retail business of Lowell. In 1903 the next step forward was made, and again in 1907 a very considerable step forward was effected, as the picture shows. The present store on the corner of Merrimack and John Streets is almost completed and marks the latest development of our constantly expanding business.

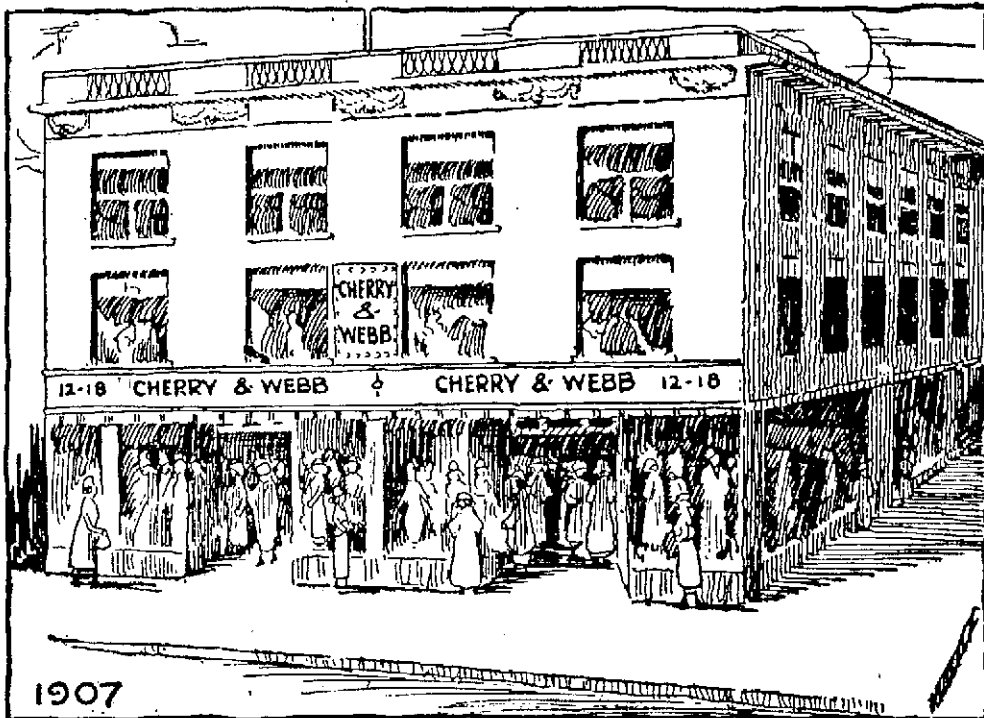

STEP by step the business of Cherry & Webb has grown from the small beginning of 1890, in very limited space, to one of the largest women's specialty stores in New England—and by far the largest in Lowell. It has been a safe and sane growth, not spasmodic or sensational, but a steady climb—upward and onward—gaining at the start the good will and confidence of the public, which we have kept throughout the 34 years of our career in Lowell.

THE continuous growth and expansion of this business is the logical result of our merchandising policy. For 34 years we have bent every effort to provide our patrons comprehensive selections of dependable, desirable merchandise at the lowest prices consistent with quality.

We move on to Still Greater Things for we are in Lowell and the City of Lowell Spells Progress

In a short time we shall announce the opening of the completed new building—which will give us about 20,000 additional square feet of floor space. Every appointment will be in keeping with the advancing requirements of a growing Lowell.

Our Greater Building and Expansion Sale Just Completed.

Packed our aisles with thousands of new customers who will be retained a permanent friend by the abiding recollection of the quality of the merchandise. It was a pronounced success, disposing of all winter merchandise, enabling us to start the spring season with fresh new merchandise in every department of our great store.

To Our Patrons:

We thank you for the generous recognition you have accorded our efforts to serve you. We thank you for your forbearance when we may have failed at some instance to measure up to the high standards of excellence in service that we have set as our ideal. We thank you for your continued and ever increasing support.

(Signed)

Cherry & Webb Co.

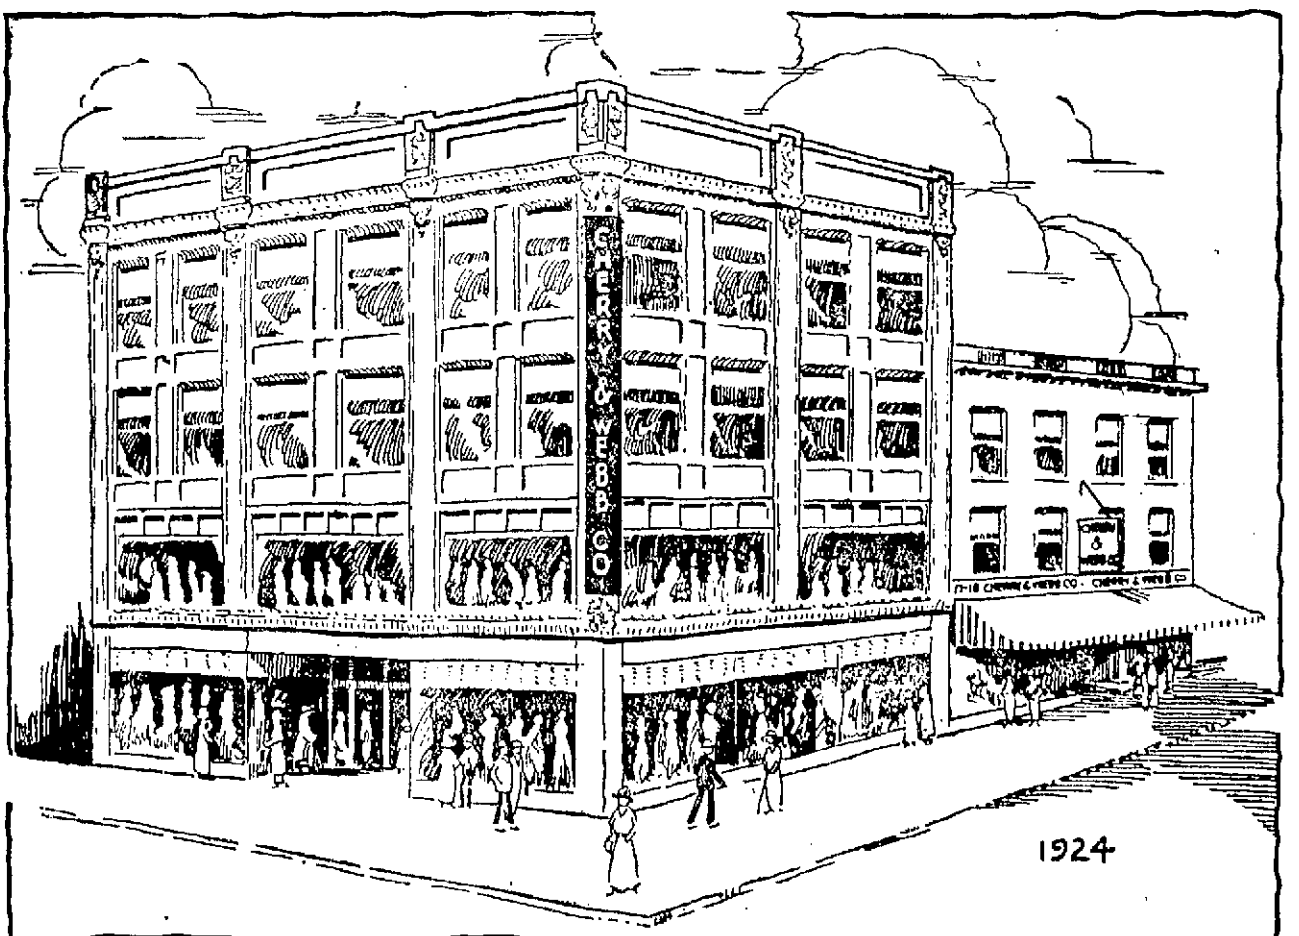

WILLIAM S. CHERRY, President

To Our Employees:

It is with a feeling of sincere appreciation that we make public recognition of your loyal co-operation. You have worked faithfully with us and have kept ever before you the ideals of service that must inevitably mean success to any enterprise. We thank you for your loyalty in the past, and bespeak for the future your continued striving toward those high standards of excellence by which we would measure our service to the community.

To all our friends, new and old, we extend at this time our sincerest thanks for the confidence they have placed in us, and we pledge our earnest endeavors to strive constantly to attain further improvement in our service to the shopping public.

MORE RECREATION SPACE REQUIRED
AT THE MOREY SCHOOL

Residents of the Highlands Await Action Relative to the Expenditure of the $10,000 Set Aside Some Time Ago for Playground Purposes

Residents of the Highlands section, tired of waiting for the spending of $10,000 made available for the purpose about three years ago, are planning to start another drive to get something done to provide sufficient recreation space for the 1200 or more pupils of the Charles W. Morey school. On the present schoolhouse lot there is very little space for the students to enjoy their recreation time. To the rear of the school there is a vast open space, unimproved, that could be purchased at a very reasonable price. With this point in mind three years ago a drive was started to get something done. The residents, flushed with quick success at having $10,000 set aside, rested from their labors and awaited for municipal government to take its course. They are still waiting and so far there has been nothing done, they say, except the purchase of one small lot for $300. Albert W. David, president of the Upper Highlands Improvement Association, is planning to call a meeting of that organization in the near future to again take up the matter. Similar action is looked for from the Morey Parent-Teachers' association of which Mrs. Charles E. Cook is president. Mrs. Charles M. Porrost, an active worker for that association, was president when the first drive was initiated and it was thought successfully culminated when the money was set aside.

There is one house on Wilder street which the folks interested in providing more breathing and playing space for the youngsters would like to get out of the way. It is understood that the city has marked time because it is held it would wipe out the whole $10,000 to condemn the house and land. But the property-owner, according to those who are interested in removing the fight for the children's benefit, is willing to move if another house lot and foundation is provided in the vicinity and the city pays these bills as well as the bill for house moving. What little recreation space that was originally provided at Morey school has been for the most part occupied by the three portable type schools and the model house used by the domestic science classes. LECTURES AND READINGS
BY PERCY W. LONG

A course of lectures and readings by Mr. Percy W. Long will be given in the high school Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock for a period of 12 weeks under the auspices of the Lowell Teachers' organization. The subject of this course is "Unfamiliar Masterpieces" and aims to provide hours of literary enjoyment for the members of the organization.

Dr. Long conducted a course for the Teachers' Organization in this city last year and it was owing to the great success of that course that his services have been secured for this new course. At each meeting of this course, lesser known but important works from the fields of poetry, drama, and fiction will be presented with readings of illustrative passages. Without following an historical order, these will include both standard and contemporary writers of several countries.

This is the fifth course to be given this year under the auspices of the Teachers' Organization. A course entitled "Education as Guidance" was given in the early fall, and three courses are now being conducted, the subjects being "Applied Psychology," "English Composition," and "Educational Psychology."

measured up to the full expectation of the students.

These same facts are true of Buick's success. Buick's 20 years of successful automobile building has seen the constant development of the Buick six to its present outstanding stage.

FIRE FOILED BY
OAKLAND FINISH

Don't fail to see the wonderful demonstration of Buick finish which will be held at the showroom of the Lowell-Oakland company at 624 Middlesex street, Friday afternoon and evening, March 21.

If you saw a salesman holding a lighted match against the shining sides of a new Buick car, you would ordinarily be justified in dubbing him as an "Is-ant 'ant."

The test will be one of ten conducted by the Lowell-Oakland company to show how impervious to injury is the new Oakland Buick finish which is an exclusive feature of the 1924 Oakland cars.

The Oakland cars are being subjected to tests that would completely ruin the ordinary motor car finish, such as dropping hot tar, ammonia, sulphuric and nitric acid, mud, dirt, lime cement, boiling water and the chemical elements of a fire extinguisher on the body finish.

NO INQUEST REPORT
YET IN LYSETH CASE

As the inquest finding has not been returned as yet, Earl Orla Lyseth, operator of the automobile which struck and caused the death of Adolph G. Persberg in Middlesex street on the night of Feb. 16, was continued in district court today until March 25. He is charged with manslaughter, operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor, and drunkenness. Charles Marchant, who was in the car with Lyseth at the time of the accident, was continued on a drunkenness charge to the same date.

FREE STATE TROOPS SEIZE NINE MEN

DUBLIN, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.) Free State troops today took into custody nine men, including Col. Joseph Dolan and other army officers, accused of joining in the recent protest against the government's demobilization plan. The men were found holding a meeting with 30 or 40 others in a house in Parnell square, which was raided by Free State forces seeking Major General Tobin and Col. Dalton, leaders of the army mutiny.

Automobile Buyers

You Should Bear These Vital Factors
Firmly in Mind.

There are five factors that should influence the buyer in the selection of his motor car.

FIRST of all, what are the manufacturer's facilities and policies, as evidenced by the manufacturer's standing in the industry?

SECOND, what are the production plans and the system of manufacture? These are important, for they bear on value received for money expended.

THIRD, is the chassis mechanically correct in preserving the proper relation between power and load, comfort and safety, performance and durability?

FOURTH, does the manufacturer furnish a body type exactly suited to the buyer's motoring requirements?

FIFTH, what is the extent of the manufacturer's desire, once the car is bought, to guarantee the owner uninterrupted transportation?

One would hardly be justified in purchasing a motor car solely on the strength of one or even several of these factors. Only when the five are properly co-ordinated is true motor car efficiency found.

Thorough consistency in all of these factors is seen reflected in BUICK FOR NINETEEN TWENTY FOUR. Manufactured in the efficiently organized BUICK Factory according to policies and principles that have been distinctly BUICK for many years, the new BUICK reaches the highest pinnacle in its development.

Critical and experienced motorists, who have in their own way considered these factors, have found that the purchase of a BUICK is an investment in a perfectly developed, well-engineered motor car, precisely manufactured and backed by authorized service.

DR. ELIOT IS STILL ACTIVE

Former Harvard Head, Well Advanced in Years, Praises Moderation in Life

Believes in Vacations, Changes in Environment, Care in Eating, Sleep

By HAROLD B. MATSON
N.E.A. Service Writer
CAMBRIDGE, March 19.—A prescription for health and mental alertness until 90—

"Eat moderately, sleep at least seven hours a night with windows open, take regular exercise in the open air, use no stimulants, enjoy all natural delights without excess in any, and keep under all circumstances a serene spirit as possible."

It is Dr. Charles W. Eliot's answer to the world's question: What is your secret?

He will be 90 years old tomorrow. "My experience does not furnish a short, explicit prescription for keeping health and working power, probably because many and various causes have contributed to the result," he says.

"That I have borne much labor and responsibility without suffering even temporary breakdowns, seems to be due—after the inheritance of a sound constitution—to my possession of a good muscular and nervous system, prescribed by open air exercise and the habit of moderate eating."

"It may have contributed to the fortunate result that at the time of my life I have never made use of nerve stimulants like tea, coffee, tobacco or alcohol, although I have never been a total abstemious from any of these stimulants except coffee. When I have taken them it has always been in diluted form."

He is a firm believer in the good effects of change of one's environment. During his life he has always spent vacations in the country, and in his earlier days, at sea in a ship along the New England coast.

"I have made a strong and wholesome change of life," Dr. Eliot explains, "and also of mental occupation, for I went as skipper and pilot."

Another important factor in his life has been his ability to sleep.

"I could spend long evenings in stirring debates and go to bed with good home, I could write diligently on an interesting subject until 11

Reaches 90th Birthday Tomorrow

DR. CHARLES WILLIAM ELIOT
President Emeritus, Harvard University

In honor of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University for 40 years, and now president emeritus, his 90th birthday will be celebrated tomorrow afternoon in Cambridge, under the auspices of the Harvard Alumni Association, the Associated Harvard Clubs and an honorary committee of citizens, comprised of prominent men all over the country. President Eliot is serving as chairman of this committee.

The public tribute will take place in Sanders theatre at 3.30. Conspicuous addresses will be made by Hon. Edward Terry Sanford of the supreme court of the United States, and president of the Harvard Alumni Association; Abbott Lawrence Lowell, president of the university, George Wigglesworth of the board of overseers, Dean L. B. Briggs of the faculty, Charlton MacVane of the senior class, Dr. James R. Angell, president of Yale University, Hon. Channing H. Cox, governor of Massachusetts, and William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States.

It is expected that more than a thousand will be present at the meeting. This number will include representatives of the Harvard Alumni Association and the Associated Harvard Clubs. Many prominent men from throughout the country will be present as an honorary committee of citizens.

It is to be one of "real joy and satisfaction." Few men at 90 are able to live the pace of Dr. Eliot.

He is as active as a man of 60, although he has recently undergone to guard his physical strength, living somewhat of a secluded life.

Close associates assert that he is as intellectually alert today as he was 15 years ago when he retired from the post as head of Harvard.

Perhaps the outstanding thing about his intellectual interest is that he looks forward, never backward. He is interested in tomorrow, not yesterday. The future of humanity holds his attention, never his past.

He has absolute faith in democracy, firmly believing that education and religion are the fundamentals of democracy.

Dr. Eliot observes, "I cannot be excluded from a life of intellect and be asleep the moment I get into bed," he asserts.

Moderation came to him naturally, according to his own words, and was not the result of a peculiar wisdom or lively sense of duty.

The famous educator is also aware of two mental and moral conditions which have contributed to his safe endurance of physical and mental strains. They are calm temperament and ability to avoid anticipation of disappointments and vain regrets.

"He who desires calm temperament will do well to be provided with strong muscles and obedient nerves," Dr. Eliot observes.

And he emphasizes his belief that "moral influences of love and good will" cannot be excluded from a life of intellect and be asleep the moment I get into bed," he asserts.

PLAN OLD-TIME SMOKER AND ENTERTAINMENT

A real "big time" is to be had at the rooms of the Young Men's Catholic Institute tomorrow, Thursday evening in the form of an old-time smoker and entertainment. It is complimentary for members and their families, friends and a prize drawing for a beneficiary will be held during the course of the evening. The following judges have been chosen to have charge of the prizes: Chairman, William Walsh, Broadway Social Club; John J. Mahoney, C.Y.M.I.; John W. Sharkey, Matthew; Frank Rieard, Lowell Ad Club; Joseph M. Lally, Typographical Union; Frank E. Maclean, Sunday Telegram; William H. Sullivan, Lowell Sun, and George Keefe, Courier-Citizen.

Representative Thomas Noland, of Boston, is expected to be on hand, and will be the principal speaker of the evening. Other speakers will include local men. Mr. Noland's ability as a public speaker and humorist, is too well known to go into detail and that all will enjoy his interesting discourse goes without saying.

In addition a splendid entertainment program has been drawn up, including Lowell's best talent. Each and every number on the varied program is a sure-fire hit and those taking part include John Payne, Joseph Craven, Joseph Wodge, William Corbett, Frank Lynch, James Corrigan, Thomas Carlin, Edward Cawley, Frank P. McCarthy, Frank O'Neil Donahue and Ball, and Charles J. Keyes. The accompanists for the evening will be John P. Broderick and Thomas Dowd.

For the Cough That Sticks

Common Cough Syrups Won't Help—You've Got to Make Your Own

Cheap and Best

For any kind of a cough, but especially for the stubborn one that persists and keeps you awake nights this home made cough mixture will quickly loosen the phlegm, allay the inflammation and stop the cough.

You can make it yourself at home in two minutes by following these instructions.

Get from any druggist one ounce of "Parmit" (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice on chest and throat, it completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-over cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup could sustain this expensive ingredient.

It's a mighty fine remedy for chest colds and acute and chronic, and remember that any remedy that overcomes catarrh, partially or wholly, is bound to be of benefit to those who are troubled with head noises and ear-ache deafness.

Get Parmit and get better.—Adv.

SECRET OF KEEPING YOUNG

Why is it that some women look older at thirty-five than others do at fifty? Why is it that so many women are always run-down, weak, pale, nervous, irritable and unhappy? Health, vitality and freedom from pain and disease alone can prevent the signs of age from fastening themselves upon women. All over this country women are awakening to the fact that the life, ache and pains of women may be relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the result is renewed life, energy and the glow of health. In fact, the secret of keeping young is to ward off all internal ailments that cause premature aging, which is easily accomplished by this remarkable root and herb remedy.—Adv.

DENYING THE LAW OF GRAVITY

When Einstein gave out his law of relativity, it made but little stir because few people understood what it meant. Now, however, the scientists have made an attack upon our accepted theory of the law of gravity. Calvin S. Page of Chicago, who has been awarded the Nobel prize in physics this year, for his book entitled "The Life Atom," tells the world that the force of gravity does not draw people toward the center of the earth, but that on the contrary it is the repulsion from the other planets and the stars that presses objects on the earth's surface downward and holds them in place.

This is simply reversing the theory laid down by Sir Isaac Newton and accepted by practically all scientists up to the present time. It would be difficult for Mr. Page to give a demonstration of the truth of his theory; but it is not so difficult to prove the Newtonian theory of gravitation. If each planet has such a strong repellent force that it is felt at such a great distance, is it not reasonable to assume that the force exerted by our planet would cast the objects on its surface outward and away in spite of the counter repellent force exerted by numerous other bodies from a vast distance?

Moreover, the repellent force which Mr. Page says is exerted on our earth by the other heavenly bodies is not concentrated in one direction. Newton's theory is the more reasonable and the more scientific. If the heavenly bodies exert a repellent force as alleged instead of attraction toward the center, it must be exerted from the center to the circumference of each body; and should, therefore, tend to split each body into fragments and drive them outward into space; but the opposite tendency is everywhere apparent, and it fully explains the motions and rotundity of the heavenly bodies in this universe of ours.

THIRD PARTY THREAT

La Follette has come out with a bold statement to the effect that if President Coolidge is re-nominated at the republican convention, as leader of the insurgent and other dissatisfied elements, he will head a third party. This situation may have serious results. Wisconsin and several other states, since the opening of the World war, have shown pro-German tendencies while utterly some of them have become belatedly.

It is a rather alarming state of affairs to find such men as La Follette, Shipstead, Brookhart and Magnus Johnson elected to the United States senate. The choice of senators by popular vote is all right where the people have the interest of the country at heart; but where this condition does not prevail, it results in lowering the standard of the men who are sent to the senate. If senators were chosen by the legislature as in the past, we do not think that such men as Magnus Johnson would be chosen, even from Wisconsin.

We have confidence, however, that the country will not be misled by any ultra radical elements despite the unfortunate state of affairs at Washington that will offer very effective campaign material for a third party. We do not believe, however, that the Democrats of the country will be caught in La Follette's belated trap. A third party as proposed might help defeat the republican ticket; but so far as we can judge, it would only help to increase the solidarity of the democrats in support of their candidates—provided the right kind of men are nominated, but not otherwise. It will not do to put up reactionaries or to select candidates for their radical tendencies. That would be fatal, as the voters would feel they might as well support the third party as the same stamp of men on the democratic ticket.

The present situation calls for the exercise of statesmanship. Some big man is wanted for president, one who will command the confidence of the people as did Wilson and Cleveland.

Thus far, Mr. Underwood is the only democratic candidate who approaches that standard; but how he will fare in the convention is very uncertain. There are such men in the country; but they are not seeking political preferment, and as a result, it will be a difficult matter to draft them at the last moment.

Ex-Vice President Marshall is favorably known throughout the country and is good presidential timber. Even William Jennings Bryan is mentioned as a possibility, and had he stood his ground as secretary of state during the war, nothing could beat him; but while nobody wants war, the people of this country would not care to trust the destinies of the nation to a man who would run away from a fight. With good management and the exercise of wise judgment in the choice of candidates, the democratic party should score a sweeping victory.

CATCHING THE CAR

How an interesting passenger automobile side a one-man car can make his presence known to the operator even at a white pole or a street corner is a problem to be decided by the company. In such cases, when a car moves out while a passenger taps unnoticed at a forward window, there is a temptation to yank the trolley rope; but that would be a serious offense. It would not be so serious, however, as depriving a passenger of the chance to ride unless he takes the risk of running almost in front of the car. Some people have taken that chance with fatal results. Why not provide a button or a bell rope outside the car by which the intending passenger can signal the operator to stop?

ON UPWARD CURVE

Financial charts show that American business is today taking "the upward curve." We believe that this upward movement of the business curve, which started early in January, is persuasive evidence that business improvement is fully under way in New England. Manufacturing output is likely to maintain or even increase its present rate, which, though below the record figure of last spring, is above normal in many instances a condition which does not mean either a boom or a depression, but a period of active business.

Of course there are some industries that are depressed, particularly when the present condition is compared with that during the war or the post-war

SEEN AND HEARD

The season for hunting spring poets opens soon.

An ancient temple has been found at Ux, which sounds as if they forgot the name of the place.

Henry Wood, actress, has married a poet. Serves her right for being a good looking.

James D. Ayer, who lives in Laconia, N. H., heard and read so much about moving pictures that he decided to look them over. So on his 82d birthday he attended his first moving picture show and came out an enthusiastic convert to the silent drama.

A bull that escaped from a Harrisburg, Penn., abattoir at Christmas, has just been found roaming on an island in the Susquehanna river opposite the city. There is no shelter of any kind on the island except that afforded by trees. Persons who attempted to capture the bull found him to be as wild as any on the banks of the river.

No Right to Know

"Tell me, doctor," said the patient in the hospital, nervously, "is there any chance of this operation proving favorable?" "Really, young man," protested the doctor, laughing, "considering that we are experimenting on you free of charge, I think your curiosity is hardly good form."

Necessary to the Story

"What will this operation on the nose cost me, doctor?" inquired the wealthy patient. "One thousand dollars, sir," returned the doctor. "Isn't that an awful price?" she asked. "Certainly. But you expect to tell your stylish friends a great deal about this operation, don't you now?" "I suppose so." "Of course. So you must be in a position to conclude," the doctor charged me an awful price."

Good Fish Story

It was an angling match. For four hours 200 competitors had sat upon the river bank and fished. Then the waterside crowd roared. A fisherman had the same story. "No luck at all." Only one had caught a fish and that could not be found. He had released it somewhere. It was not until he came home late that night and had some trouble in opening his door that he discovered it. It had slipped into the end of his latch key.

All Wrought Up

An Englishman, staying at a Nevada ranch, suggested that his host should take a walk with him to a mountain that looked close to hand. The Englishman was deceived in the appearance of the distance, owing to the rarity of the atmosphere. As he walked several hours the mountain seemed no nearer. Returning by a different route, the pair came upon an irrigated field. At the first ditch, the Englishman sat down and began to remove his shoes. "What are you going to do?" inquired the Nevada. The Englishman contemplated the ditch and said, "What I'm going to swim in this irrigated river."

Desperation

"Life far from here," the poet sighed, "I have never satisfied. My longing never satisfied. All pleasures ebb. The world that once appeared so fair, seems dull and drear. What is there now to make me care to linger here?"

Indifferent to all about. The light of my life has gone out. I welcome death. Without thee, everything is gone. A motor car came dashing on. He jumped for life!

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

The police regard the apprehension of the 18-year old youth who committed a bold robbery in the Lakeview avenue store of Edward O'Connor, as a good piece of work. Three times in as many weeks, Mr. O'Connor's cash till had been rifled by this same adventurous individual and each time he succeeded in making his getaway. The latest attempt, committed Monday afternoon, proved that he went to the well once too often. Mr. O'Connor, a victim, is a man about town, an old man, and his wife in suite of rooms adjoining the store. He is well known in the West Centralville district and has the sympathy of the entire community in the unwarranted attacks upon him.

Once more we are to have daylight saving. The plan will go into effect this year from 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in April to the same hour on the last Sunday in October. This year the time for setting watches and clocks ahead one hour will come on April 27, but, of course, the time to change timepieces will be before going to bed on the 26th.

REV. JOHN C. LOVELL AT EDUCATIONAL CLUB

Two famous poems of inspiration, "The Philosophy of Life" by Robert Browning, and "The Hound of Heaven" by Francis Thomas, were used as the basis for a most revealing discourse delivered yesterday afternoon before the members of the Educational Club in Kilton hall, by Rev. John C. Lovell.

Browning admirably taught in his favorite poem, the pastor said, that there was something beyond this life when he declared that "Thy soul and God endure." In the Thomas poem, the pastor continued, there is a pathos drawn from the drops of life itself, for this poem had "descended from the very drops of London town." By some critics the Thomas poem, "The Hound of Heaven," is declared to be the greatest lyric in the English language today.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Leggat, president of the club, presided at a brief meeting held before the lecture hour. One new member was admitted to the club rolls.

of interest in national and international affairs.

The University club circular also carries an advertisement of the proposed new clubhouse building corner of Trinity place and Stuart street, Boston. It is convenient to Trinity place, Huntington avenue and Back Bay railroad stations and only a short distance from the Arlington and Copley subway stations. The clubhouse will contain: Squash courts and tennis courts, swimming pool, gymnasium, Turkish bath, boxing alley, an auditorium, library, lounge, rooms, card room, dining room, a separate ladies' dining room with reception room, and a large number of bedrooms with private baths for both permanent and non-resident members.

The play is the thing these days, it seems. The latest addition to the theatricals is a society recently organized by Rev. Aloysius G. Madden in St. Michael's parish, which will present an up-to-date play soon after the Lenten season. Rehearsals have started already and every indication points to a successful presentation. Several other church and social organizations, including St. Columba's dramatic society, which will present "O'Neil's Rose," under the direction of Rev. Cornelius J. Cotter.

An old-fashioned market now in the possession of Jean J. Seymour, is claimed by him to be more than 150 years old. He says the wife was brought to this country by a member of Lafayette's outfit at the time of the Revolutionary war, and was used in several important battles in that heroic struggle. Mr. Seymour, who formerly lived in Lowell, is now a resident of Tyngsboro and prizes his antique very highly.

Hand-tub musters and runners of musters come along in daily written stories from all over the New England Freeman's muster circuit. And the "gingerbread days" may come back to Lowell, too, some fine day. The musters, if the Ben Butler "Vets" have good luck in their present search for a real hand-tub with real handles and a real throwing capacity of at least 225 feet down the measuring papers, "Gingerbread days," you ask? Bless you! Yes! John L. Kendall, we believe, invented the gingerbread hand-tub musters. A Maine veteran of the old-time fire-fighting and "tub musters" days, he tells us of the effervescent period when big shows of home-made gingerbread musters every New England musters event worth attending. If gingerbread is a real hand-tub musters, it can be predicted, we hope the field musters enterers won't forget the gingerbread. The surviving Butler "Vets" won't, anyhow.

The CALL OF THE TAME

It's just a scoundrel that wandered up and parked right at our door. This happened, say, about three months ago. Perhaps a tramp for many days but not one any more. He's found a home—a fact he seems to know. Dad calls him Pete. I don't know why, but Pete's the name. The baby just says "Pete" when her tiny hand is lifted and brother Bill refers to him as Sport.

The kids around our neighborhood, who feed him scraps and such, will summon him with names of any kind. The milkman calls him Fuzzy and the mailman calls him Dutch. He takes them all and doesn't seem to mind. It's "Pete, come here," and "Pete, lie down," that the dog does as told. There's nothing in a name to him it seems. Whenever people call him with a little, new or old, he answers as he wags his tail and beams. Which makes a person wonder—is this canine really dumb or is he rather human after all? He gets his bits of pleasure when the looks of kindness come and he answers when there's friendship in the call.

BILLERICA SELECTMEN HOLD MEETING

BillERICA selectmen disposed of a large list of new business at yesterday's meeting in town hall. The Lowell road and road problem was referred to the highway surveyor with the recommendation that the thoroughfare be improved this season.

The controversy existing between Highway Surveyor Townsley and a former employee of his department, Edward McMillen, will be disposed of by the selectmen next week. There is a case in which both McMillen and Townsley are interested. McMillen is a former service man and the two parties involved in the present controversy are alleged to have engaged in a dispute at highway department headquarters, the attention causing considerable town talk. Mr. McMillen had previously been laid off from his town job and had been rehired by order of the selectmen, only to be removed temporarily once more pending the outcome of the court hearing Saturday.

A corrected petition was received from the Lowell Electric Light corporation by the selectmen yesterday, relative to pole locations in Beacon street. A hearing will be held on the matter April 7.

Petitioners from the North BillERICA section of the town desire repairs and widening of the approaches to High street bridge in that section of the town. The Boston & Maine railroad, passing at that point, has been asked to aid in the improvements, 200 citizens signing the petition.

Minor appointments of town officials for the coming year were made before adjournment.

After the debate, Fr. Jefferson addressed the cadets and congratulated the debaters on their fine presentation of arguments. Mr. Cryan also spoke. A challenge was issued to the Fathers' association to debate a current local subject in the near future.

ST. COLUMBA'S CHURCH ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON IRELAND

Lenten Sermon by Rev. Denis A. O'Brien of St. Paul's Church, Cambridge

Rev. Denis A. O'Brien, Ph.D., S.T.L., a former Lowell boy, now of St. Paul's church, Cambridge, delivered the second in the series of Lenten sermons in St. Columba's church last night. His text, taken from Proverbs xxviii, 20: xxviii, 15, was: "A faithful man shall be much praised, and he that is the keeper of his master shall be glorified."

The text referred to St. Joseph, of whom the preacher said: "St. Joseph is known and loved as the patron of a happy death, but he is also the patron of a happy life. He is the guardian and protector of our Lord and His Mother. Their honor is in our hands and it is our blessed privilege to respect and love them and protect them by our own lives."

REV. DENIS A. O'BRIEN

lego to respect and love them and protect them by our own lives. Intimate as was the life of St. Joseph with our Lord, ours is even more so. We have him always in the Blessed Sacrament so that we can be in His company as often and as long as we wish. He went down and was subject to them. But how far he comes down to us to the depths of our ingratitude, coldness and carelessness. He who was subject to them is at the back and call of his sinners. He waits for us in the tabernacle, eager to aid us. He comes to us through the city streets, amidst the unbelief and scoffing as he went to the daughter of Sion.

"It is only as a child that we ever see Jesus by the side of St. Joseph. Only as an infant does he lie in the arms of Joseph. Now the Blessed Sacrament is the most perfect type of the infancy of our Saviour, for it is in the Blessed Sacrament that Jesus leads that retired, hidden and helpless life that he led as a child at Nazareth. Here then is the church transformed into Nazareth. Jesus, as hidden and helpless as there, and we the Josephs and Marys, the watchers and protectors of our hidden God."

"Joseph was first of all a man of faith. Faith easily understands the things of God. Today when many minds are trying to reason away the teachings of faith concerning the divinity of our Blessed Lord, and the unique prerogatives of His Virgin Mother, we may well take pattern by St. Joseph. He had many trials to shake his constancy and test his faith, but his diligence was unremitting and his confidence invulnerable."

"Joseph was a just man. His is the history of a plain simple life truly hidden with God. There is great need in these days for us to cultivate through nearness to our Lord a sense of justice that may lead to right and the removal of injustices that so unremedied and almost unrebuked. The injustice of class arrangement against class, and creed against creed in bitter conflict; the injustice of sundered marriage ties that bring disaster to countless innocent children; the injustice of parents' rights arrogated by the state—it is a heart-breaking litany in these days of our boasted civilization, and there is great need for prayer to an limitation of St. Joseph, the patron of family life. On the family depends the stability of the state, and in the school or the home only are learned the lessons of citizenship of this world as well as of God's kingdom."

"The days and years will slip away and there will come to each of us a day when the Angel of Death will come to touch our busy lives to a close. God grant our dying to be a happy one with Jesus, Mary and Joseph with us in our last agony, so that our eyes closed in death will open to Him our risen Saviour waiting to reward a life spent, like his foster-father, in faithful service."

The sermon next Tuesday night will be delivered by Rev. Francis Doyle of St. Andrew's church, Jamaica Plain.

Miss Florence Evans, representing Highland Congregational church, presided at the rally. Another meeting will be held within a short time.

GUESTS OF HONOR

A large number of friends of the two young ladies were present and games were played during the evening. An impromptu entertainment was given, the feature being a few dances by Miss Elizabeth Perry. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

DAYLIGHT SAVING WILL START APRIL 27

When does daylight saving actually start this year?

Lively discussions have been started over less important problems, and few citizens will agree as to the exact date for turning back the hands of the kitchen clock in this year of our Lord 1924.

Daylight saving starts on Sunday morning, April 27. Some confusion is being caused at present by a belief that daylight saving this year starts on the last Sunday in March and lasts until the last Sunday in October. True, this was the period originally set by the general laws of Massachusetts for daylight saving, but the law was amended in 1921 so that this year daylight saving will begin on the last Sunday in April, and will last only until the last Sunday in September.

Many people who acquired the annual habit of changing their watches on the last Sunday in March, have been preparing to do so again this year. As a matter of fact, the change to April was made as a concession to the farmers, who objected and still object to the system in its entirety.

The last Sunday in April comes on the 27th day of the month. It will be entirely proper if you happen to think of it to turn ahead the hands on watches and clocks one hour upon retiring on the night of April 26. You have an hour's sleep that much of course, but you get it back on Sept. 25—five months later.

The box office will open tomorrow and seat reservations may be made at any time from 10 o'clock tomorrow. Seats will be placed on sale simultaneously for all three shows, next week's "Twin Beds," and "The Cat and Canary" and "Trene." The popular opera house prices will prevail.

Rival Amateur Teams Ready for Title Series — Lowell Poloists Beat Providence

OPENING GAME OF AMATEUR BASKETBALL SERIES TONIGHT

"Y" Highland Quintet and St. Anne's A. C. to Compete Under A. A. U. Rules in Crescent Rink Tonight—Three Game Series

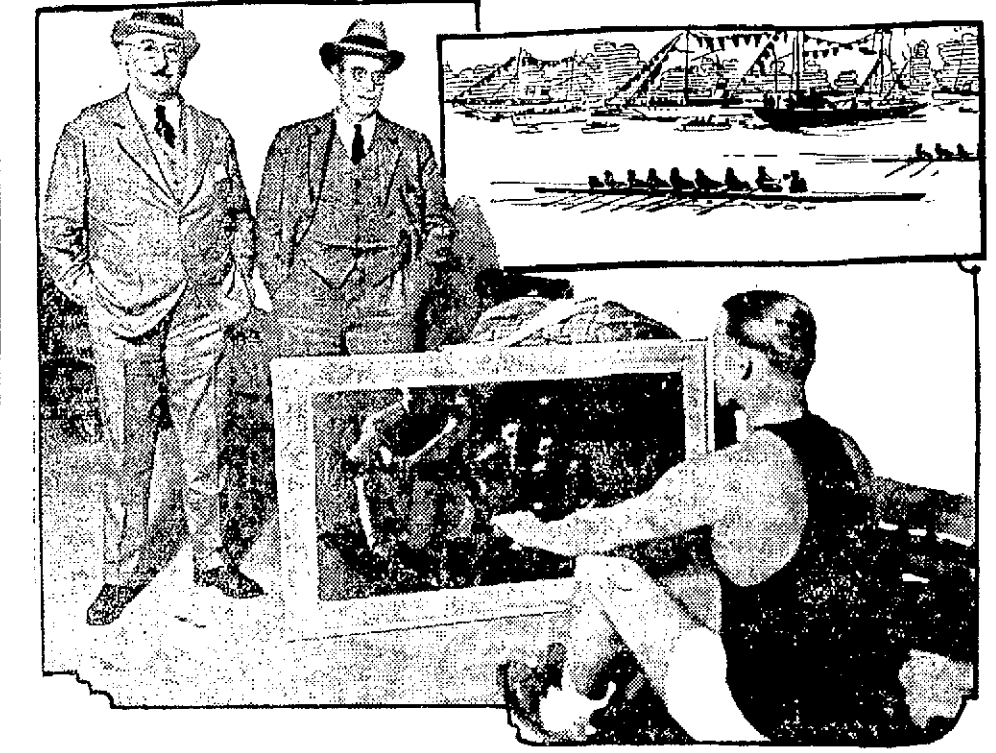

COACH OSCAR MCFARLAND St. Anne's COACH FRANK SAWYER Highland Quintet

Professionalism will be forgotten tonight when the "Y" Highland quintet and the St. Anne's A. C. meet in the first game of the much-discussed series to determine the amateur basketball championship of the city for the season of 1923-24. The game will be played in the Crescent rink, which has been transformed to comply with the rules and regulations of the Amateur Athletic Union, in accordance with which the big series will be conducted. The contesting teams are not introduced to local devotees of basketball. The pick of the city in the amateur ranks, the teams will enter the series on an even basis intent on fighting every inch of the way to draw first blood. Both teams are in the pink of condition and anxious to hear the sound of the whistle, as they have not participated in a real game for more than two weeks.

Although there have been several exciting series in the city this season, the contesting teams are professional. Inasmuch as the contesting teams will be strictly "amateur," it is sure to attract a large audience. Amateur rules require just as much fast play and headwork as professional regulations and the players are kept constantly on their toes.

To attempt to pick a winner of tonight's game is first degree folly. The

However, This New System is No a Reflection on the Oarsman's Skill

You see in the surmounting scene, Messrs. Wright and Lier, experts in the art of paddle teaching, introducing a new thought in their work, a mirror which shows the crew candidates of University of Pennsylvania themselves as others see them. The idea is to show the young athletes their faults through their own eyes and thus enable them to know themselves what not to do and what to do. Howard Medford, captain of the crew, is shown at the rowing machine, while the rest of the crew can be seen in the mirror.

Men Like Mild Cigars

Lowell men are buying more Elcho cigars than ever before, and less of the imported brands. Cigar dealers say that this condition is due to the fact that the Elcho Cigar is made from an expensive long Havana filler, and is a mild, satisfying smoke.

The price of the Elcho is the same to the smoker as so-called popular brands—although the wholesale price is higher. The Elcho has shown the way to make Boston the big cigar center.—Advt.

LOWELL TEAM TURNS TABLES ON PROVIDENCE IN GREAT GAME

"Bob" Hart Leads Locals to 10 to 6 Victory in Third Clash of Inter-City Polo Series—Lowell Manager Scores Six Goals—Next Game Friday

With "Bob" Hart and "Wild Bill" Duggan developing a most effective combination play and their jockeying into the picture perfectly, the Lowell team won their first game of the polo series with Providence at the Crescent rink last night. The score was 10 to 6. The result makes the count two to one in favor of Providence.

After being forced to take the dust of the Rhode Island entry here last Friday night and again in Providence, Saturday night the Lowell players were in a fighting mood and they entered the cage determined to get revenge. They mapped out their plan of attack carefully and their strategy proved to be perfection.

The Lowell team was assigned to do the floor work with Hart set to do the hitting. Hart and Morrison alternated in covering the horse and Davies, with Jettie in the back, when the opposing sharpshooters got by Lowell's first line of defense. All played at top speed and each contributed generously to the success of the home team.

BAD LUCK CONTINUES TO TRAIL RUTH, LOSES $1000 BILL

Bob Meusel Fails to Reach Agreement With Manager Huggins—Fournier Reports to Brooklyn—Cardinals May Trade Stock to Brooklyn for Catcher

NEW YORK, March 19.—Bad luck, which started trailing Babe Ruth when he went to "hot out" at Hot Springs, was in evidence at New Orleans, when the Bambino lost one of four $1000 bills he was carrying to a bank from his hotel room to forward to his wife.

Bob Meusel, who is professional, tried to get a loan from the bank, but failed to reach an agreement, though their differences over salary were understood to be slight. Meusel, however, is not a professional, but a player who is not a professional.

Jack Fournier, Brooklyn's only legitimate first baseman, reported at Clearwater, Fla., and Manager Robinson that Milton Stock, St. Louis infielder, was eager to be transferred to Brooklyn. A deal may be arranged with the Cardinals.

PATRIOTIC APPEAL MAY LEAHY AND GRADWELL NO FAST BALLS FOR RUTH, BE MADE TO FIRPO MANAGERS CONFIDENT SAYS SISLER

BIRMINGHAM, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.) Lyle, Leary, and Gradwell, South American heavyweight champion, celebrated as the man who knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring, maintaining his determination to quit the pugilistic life, despite tempting offers for matches in the United States, including a return bout with Dempsey.

The headlines of his friends have failed to move him, and there are indications that a patriotic appeal might be made to the better from a high source, in which it would be pointed out to him that his further success in the ring would enhance the national prestige.

Interpreted by La Razon, El Paso said: "I am tired of boxing, of the advice of my friends and even of money. You may confirm my statement to The Associated Press saying that I am retiring from boxing and from the world."

Lowell got the jump and maintained the lead throughout, but the visitors looked serious when they were consistently all the way to hold their advance. Several brief clashes came as the game progressed, but the only dangerous play was a slight cut on Morrison's back, due to contact with one of the enemy's sticks. "Dr." Duggan fixed it up and the popular halibut returned to play.

As the game got under way the teams battled for more than five minutes before a goal was scored. "Wild Bill" Duggan broke the deadlock by hitting a three to nothing edge when the period ended. As the second session got underway Hart hammered another goal, leaving Lowell with a 2-1 advantage. Duggan's play stood out as a slapping made a desperate stand and worked the ball into Jettie's territory. A big scramble occurred in front of Jettie.

CIVIC PRIDE AWAKENED BY STAR ATHLETES AT HIGH SCHOOL

Complimentary Dinner Will Mark New Era of Appreciation of What Young America is Doing for Lowell—Testimonial By Big Business Men

Public sentiment is behind the complimentary dinner to be given to the athletes of the high school on the evening of March 26. The dinner is the biggest and most significant affair ever conducted in appreciation of the athletic side of school life and what the boys have done for their country to help put Lowell in a more prominent position in the inter-school world of sport in Massachusetts and New England.

In every respect it will be a complimentary dinner, as it is estimated that the number of boys who will be present will be 200 and with all bills paid by public-spirited business and professional men who have a deep interest in the affairs of the school and who are particularly desirous to see it find and maintain its proper place on the inter-school ladder.

Lighted Recognition

Lowell has just begun to show a measure of appreciation and pride in its high school. The school now has an enrollment of 250 young men and young women. It is a big school in every respect, yet for years and years it has been classified in the realm of competitive sports with schools much smaller, located in cities and towns half Lowell's size. This lack of prestige does not go hand in hand with the present school enrollment and the size of the city. Athletically Lowell has been a "small town" school in a large city and this state of things the school authorities are most anxious to change.

A well attended meeting and smoker was held by the Waldorf club last night, in the club rooms in the Howe building. President George Dunaway presided at the business meeting and considerable amount of business was transacted. The report of the committee in charge of the dinner to be conducted April 25, was read and proved to be very interesting. Following the business meeting, a smoker was enjoyed with remarks on the good of the club being given by several of the officers, and songs given by George Mahoney. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

K. OF C. AND C. M. A. C. GAMES TOURNAMENT

The members of the Knights of Columbus are looking forward with great interest to the return engagement with the members of the C.M.A.C. in the game tournament tomorrow evening. The meeting of two weeks ago resulted in a victory for the C.M.A.C. boys by a narrow margin, but tomorrow evening the K.C.'s expect to get revenge. Pool, billiards, checkers, bowling, badminton, pitch and cribbage will be the attractions and the members are reminded to be at the C.M.A.C. clubhouse at 8 o'clock sharp. At the close of the competition a beautiful supper will be served by the winning organization.

Win the Ninth PHILADELPHIA, March 19.

With the score, 6 to 4 against them, the Philadelphia regulars staged the first much anticipated race of the season, winning 6 to 4 from the Yankees on Sunday, 7 to 5 from the Cubs in Montgomery, Ala.

The regulars led the eighth inning with a comfortable 4 to 1 margin, but the youngsters staged a six-run rally, featured by Early Macale's double with the bases full, to much. Right fielder Sam Rice, former Philadelphia star, Sammy Hale followed with a homer to right center, tying the score. Strated, former league slugger, picked out a fast single to tie the game. The Yankees failed to score in their half of the inning.

Browns' Casualty Last Grown ST. LOUIS, March 19.

The St. Louis Browns' hospital is a grow yesterday when Pat Collins, catcher, split his right thumb, barbed and dislocating the joint. The wound will keep him out of the game at least two weeks. It is feared, St. Louis struck on the head with a ball, and Ed Cutting, with a sprained ankle, complete the list.

By Cobb Laid Up DETROIT, March 19.

Pitchers who will be counted on by the Detroit American League team to bear the burden of the heavy season are the ones who have been decided upon virtually, according to word from the training camp at Augusta, Ga. The list includes Duvess, Cobb, Sam Rice, and White. There is a possibility that Phillete, who has not lost a game to Cleveland since he came to the team, but except for this possibility, Duvess looks like the probable choice for the opening game.

MIAMI TRUCK WILL BE HERE TONIGHT

With the prospects bright for the opening of the new track at Miami, Fla., next winter another place will be put on the racing map which will help to take up the slack. The motorcycle with racing right now from a bicyclist and trainer's standpoint, is that there are the many horses and not enough places to race.

Five for Two Trade Looks Good to Sisler

LEFT TO RIGHT, PITCHER GEORGE LYONS, CATCHER TONY REGO.

By N.E.A. Service
MOBILE, Ala., March 19.—Manager George Sisler of the St. Louis Browns, working out here, is banking on his Pacific coast league battery. Pitcher George Lyons and catcher Tony Rego, to strengthen his club in its outweek spot, the battery department.
During his winter stay on the coast, Sisler heard so many nice things about the battery that he trusted five of his players, including the veteran catcher Josh Phillips and pitcher

Wayne Wright.
Lyons, pitching for Los Angeles, a club that finished sixth in the Pacific coast league race, won 15 and lost 15 games.
Catcher Rego had a batting average of .250 in the 41 games he worked. While neither did anything sensational last season, both are regarded as youngsters of great promise. Sisler seeks to build up his team and wants promising youngsters rather than fading veterans.

JOHN MUELLER FOUND PEACE IN OLD BOILER ON FLORIDA ROAD

JOHN MUELLER, WHO LIVED IN A BOILER, ARROW INDICATES WHERE HIS BUNK WAS BUILT.

By N.E.A. Service
GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 18.—The Old Man Who Lived in a Boiler is dead. Unlike "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," John Mueller lived in solitude.

Several years ago he shuffled his palsied way down the road to Gainesville, burdened with more than four score years. His joints ached with rheumatism and his heart with a longing for peace and contentment.

There, along the road, was a rusty, discarded boiler. He crept into it to find a moment's repose from the strife of the passing world. Within it seemed there was a little world all his own.

And so John Mueller lived a pang for himself. He obtained an old stove, he found that his rheumatism pains left him. The peace he had sought all his life was his at last.

COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.

Lowell Made Radiators Installed in Planes Off on Epochal Flight Around World

Stock Models From Lawrence Street Shops of U. S. Cartridge Co. Taken Without Any Change in Specifications—Shenandoah, Big Dirigible Ready for North Pole Dash if Authorized, is Similarly Equipped

The army fliers which yesterday hopped off on the first leg of a flight around the world are all equipped with cartridge radiator cores, the exclusive product of the Lowell plant of the United States Cartridge company. Harry E. Jenkins, factory sales manager of the product, told The Sun today that all four of the machines which are off on the flight are equipped with the famed Lowell product, now a specified type for all army machines.

Take the big airship Shenandoah which is ready to undertake a flight to the North Pole, providing such flight should be made. It is equipped with the product of the Lowell plant. Lowell's reputation, ever in the front of the attempted feats of the army and navy airmen are successful. They are certain of at least one notable distinction in the event of a flight—that of being the first Lowell product to go either around the world or to the pole by air route. Even in the event of the failure they will be recognized as the first Lowell-made product to start by air for either destination.

The manufacture of radiator cores, a triumph for the Kingston method of drawing metals, developed at the Cartridge plant here during the war, is almost a new industry here. The Cartridge company took up this manufacture after the turmoil of war as one of its peace time activities. The radiators have met with notable success from the very start.

All of the high-powered, expensive cars of America and Europe are today carrying Cartridge radiators made in Lowell, at standard equipment. The plane which broke the altitude record with a radiator made here, in the Lawrence street shops, is the greatest engineering brain of the country at its back and all didn't see the need or use of attempting to improve upon them. An eloquent tribute to Lowell craftsmanship.

The Stock Models
Despite the many changes in atmospheric conditions which the round-the-world fliers must therefore encounter and despite the rarified atmosphere that will be entered by the dirigible Shenandoah, formerly the ZR-4, in the North Pole cruise if it is attempted, it is a great tribute to Lowell craftsmanship that stock radiator cores are used. The Cartridge radiator, new though it may be, has the unqualified endorsement and approval of the most noted of experts. The Shenandoah and the round-the-world fliers took Cartridge radiators as they were shipped without any attempt to change specifications for the grueling tests which lay before them.

THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY HOUSE PASSES BONUS BILL

Charles H. Eames Explains Work and Purpose of the Textile Schools

Lowell Institution Recognized as Leading Textile School in the World

The part played by the Textile schools in the textile industry of this state was explained in an interesting and instructive manner by Principal Charles H. Eames of the Lowell Textile school at yesterday's meeting of the Lions club, held at noon in the Y. M. C. A. hall. President Charles E. Bartlett presided at the short business meeting and introduced Mr. Eames as the head of the greatest textile school in the country.

"The textile industry," said Mr. Eames, "has many factors and each must be handled in a careful and thorough manner. One factor in the industry, the fear of migration to the south, was explained to you recently by Mr. Meserve. The textile schools and their work for the industry is another factor and is the subject of my talk."

"The Textile school was founded on the belief that the preservation of the cotton industry in the north depended upon the development of men who would be capable of going into the mills and taking charge of the manufacture of finer goods, as the control of the manufacture of coarse goods had gone to the south even then. It was also founded with the idea that the woolen, worsted, flax and silk industries also depended upon skilled men if they were to succeed in this state."

"The Lowell Textile school," he continued, "was opened in 1897 with the aim of doing for the mills what the technical colleges had already done for engineering and the sciences. As a result of this high aim, the Lowell school is recognized today as the leading textile school not only in this country but in the world. I think you will all agree with me that we need this school and its development will help greatly in keeping the textile industry on the level with all the other industries of the country."

"In order to live up to this aim," he continued, "we made the entrance requirements to the school as severe as to technology schools. We insisted upon applicants having completed successfully a preparatory course in the high school. On this foundation we taught advanced mathematics, engineering and chemistry. That forms the applied science part of the curriculum. Furthermore, knowing that the success of the men in business depended upon their knowledge of business, we also taught business law and administration—and we are still doing this and this explains the great success of our graduates in the industry."

"He outlined the courses offered in the day school and the degrees given on the completion of set courses. "Another important branch," he continued, "is the evening school. This school takes the men who are already in the industry and teaches them the technical side of the textile subject."

"That we can not stop with what we are doing now," he said in conclusion, "it isn't sufficient to turn men into the industry with only a thorough knowledge of the industry as it is today. We must send out men of vision who can look ahead to the future and try and bring about the changes which are necessary for the good of the industry. As the General Electric company has done through its experimental laboratory for the electrical industry, so must the textile schools do for the textile industry if it is to stay on the level here with the industry of France, England and other manufacturing countries."

BRONZE ORNAMENTS
Bronze ornaments should never be washed. Instead dust carefully and wipe over with a soft cloth moistened with paraffin oil, then polish with a clean cloth.

HAILED FOR ESPIONAGE

Swiss Motion Picture Manager Sentenced for Espionage in Behalf of France

BERLIN, March 18. The supreme court at Leipzig has sentenced a Swiss motion picture manager named Bieng to 11 years penal servitude for espionage on behalf of France. Two German soldiers, accomplices and a woman were given 12, two and one half, and two years, respectively.

Bieng is alleged to have acted under the orders of the French captain, Darmont, leader of the French espionage service at Basel, Switzerland, who will be tried at Leipzig on Thursday. The French authorities in the occupied region are holding two prominent Germans as hostages for Captain Darmont.

ROME SAYS POPE'S HEALTH IS OF BEST

ROME, March 18.—(By the Associated Press.) The statements by a London newspaper that the pope's health was causing considerable uneasiness and that he was reported to be suffering from arterio sclerosis was received here with surprise.

The pope's health is of the best and he is daily undertaking an immense amount of work. Yesterday he received numerous cardinals and prelates in private audience and later granted a public audience to several hundred pilgrims.

On Sunday the Holy Father delivered a long address to 400 members of the Vincent society.

EVERETT TRUE

RECALLS TALK WITH DAUGHERTY ON FILMS

WASHINGTON, March 18.—While the senate investigation was continuing their examination into the Dempsey-Carpenter fight film charges, Attorney General Daugherty today made public a letter from John P. Harris, a Pittsburgh theatrical man, who said that "as an act of simple justice" he wanted to recall an interview he had with Mr. Daugherty about the exhibition of the Dempsey-Firpo pictures.

"In reply to my questions," said the letter, "as to the view the attorney-general's department took on these questions you said:

"There is only one way these or any other prize fight pictures may be transported for exhibition. "How is that?" I asked. "By report of the federal law prohibiting their transportation," you responded. "Furthermore, the government will prosecute anyone who transports them and will ask for punishment, not by fine but by imprisonment."

The Bone and Sinew

The readers of THE SUN are the bone and sinew of Lowell. They are practically all Lowell people who have helped to make the city what it is.

They earn their living in Lowell; they spend their money in Lowell; they are the main support of the Lowell merchants.

SUN readers are not in the habit of running to Boston for their supplies. They trade at home.

They are the largest body of newspaper readers in the city, and few of them read any other paper because they don't need to.

There is only one way for the merchant to reach this large, thrifty, industrious and intelligent body of readers, and that is through the columns of THE SUN.

COOLIDGE WINS IN NO. DAKOTA

Maintains More Than Two to One Lead Over Johnson in Presidential Primaries

La Follette Ruins Third as Sticker Candidate — McAdoo Unopposed

FARGO N. D., March 18.—(By the Associated Press).—President Calvin Coolidge maintained more than a two to one lead over Senator Hiram Johnson of California and Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin for the republican presidential preference endorsement on the compilation early today of incomplete and unofficial returns from yesterday's state-wide primary.

The first scattered returns were mostly from cities and towns in 35 of the state's 53 counties.

Most of the rural precincts remain to be heard from.

The totals of Senators Johnson and La Follette were swelled as the rural precincts began to report and Johnson headquarters here expressed confidence that more complete returns would swing the tide in his favor.

Nevertheless, Coolidge supporters declared the president would have a plurality when the final figures were in although not so great as the initial reports would indicate.

The vote polled by Senator La Follette was noted with satisfaction by his backers, especially because of the fact that his name was withheld from the ballot at his request. Stickers were pasted on the ballots by his adherents.

Figures from 243 precincts of 2088 in the state gave Coolidge, 14,271; Johnson 6088, and La Follette 4276.

William G. McAdoo was unopposed for the democratic presidential preference endorsement.

Meagre returns gave Harrison Garrett of St. Thomas, a Coolidge adherent a two to one lead for republican national committeeman. For democratic national committeeman, P. H. Perry had a narrow margin over R. R. Murphy.

Herrin Citizens Arraigned in Connection With Indictments Held in $3,000,000

Mortgage Homes and Automobiles to Get Money for Bonds

HERRIN, ILL., March 18.—Citizens of Herrin, scene of a big parade in protest against the "unrighteous verdict of a special grand jury" that recently returned 29 indictments against leaders of the Ku Klux Klan and other active dry raiders, today were mortgaging their homes and automobiles to get money for bonds.

S. Glenn Young, dry leader of the Klan in raids which have upset the county for more than three months, appeared for arraignment in the city court and was placed under bonds of approximately $100,000, while 76 of his aids were placed under total bonds of about $2,000,000.

INCE SUED FOR $50,000

George Stewart Files Suit as 'Aftermath of Fist Fight' Last August

NEW YORK, March 17.—Ralph Ince, motion picture director, has been served with papers in a $50,000 damage suit filed against him by his brother-in-law, George Stewart, brother of Anita Stewart, film actress, as the aftermath of a fist fight between them last August, it became known today.

The fight, Stewart charges, occurred in a lonely spot on the Boston post-road while he, Ince, and several others were motorino in New York after having made the rounds of Westchester county roadhouses. Ince is alleged to have urged the driver to stop the car and to have directed Stewart to alight. The fight followed.

Stewart said he received injuries, including a fractured skull, which confined him to a hospital for three weeks after the encounter.

LONDON PILGRIMS HEAR NEW YORK SPEECH

NEW YORK, March 18.—The first public speech in this country of Sir Esmé Howard, newly arrived ambassador from Great Britain, delivered before the Pilgrims of the United States, last night, and broadcast by radio, was heard clearly by the London Pilgrims.

The British members, gathered at the Carlton club for the occasion, heard practically every word spoken by the American members at the Hotel Waldorf, according to radiograms received here.

Sir Esmé said he believed America would "work for permanent peace, upon which a large measure of her own prosperity depends, and not leave Europe to atone in her own blood."

VASSAR HEAD TALKS ON GIRL SUICIDE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., March 18.—

Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar college, is making public reference to the suicide of Miss Muriel Demarest, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., last night, said:

"How great a proportion of the social there is in the life at Vassar," said Dr. MacCracken, "this unfortunate death has brought home to all of us. No incident of the kind has occurred at Vassar for 19 years, and over 6000 students have graduated in that time. Somehow the sacrifice of this life is up to us. In some way we failed, and did not give our fellow student support that would have given her that greater courage. We must not forget that we are all mutually responsible, one to another, and that in our community life we should go along helping and being helped."

Increase in Death Toll

which are separated into the following classifications: Murders, two; suicides, two; automobile fatalities, three; street car fatalities, one; other accidents, five.

Last year in Lowell there were 14 deaths attributed to automobiles while in the previous year, the number was six. All three of the auto fatalities of this year have occurred within the city limits and the astounding fact is that only a small proportion of the automobiles owned in this city are yet being used daily. The records at the police station show that the majority of the 14 fatalities from this cause which occurred last year happened during the summer and early fall months.

In comparison of these figures it will be seen that if the automobile fatalities continue this year on an average proportionate with the increase of the number of machines on the road over last year, the total death toll in this city for the year will be higher than ever before in the history of the city.

Murders and suicides come in waves, according to the police, and no comparison can be made, but in the case of automobile and street car accidents a comparison can easily be made.

Only a strict enforcement of traffic ordinances by the police and the taking of necessary precautions by sible precaution to keep Lowell out of pedestrians during the coming months the list of cities where the number can keep the toll of automobile and of auto accidents is appalling by in-street car accidents down anywhere struction the police to enforce the mo-near last year's number. Supt. Aukin-son is cognizant of this fact and says ter.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

Hall Calne's immortal story, "The Eternal City," said to be the greatest love romance written in recent years, will be shown for the last time today at the Strand theatre. Barbara La Marr, Lionel Barrymore, Montagu Love, Richard Bennett and others are in the cast, and their combined efforts help make the offering one of the most meritorious offerings that the screen has given the local playgoers in a long time. The remainder of the program is rounded out with one of the Chaplin classics, "The Adventurer," and Baby Peggy in one of her best comedies, "Peg o' the Mounted." The program is an excellent one and should not be missed.

How many wives whose husbands turn to drink or other women stop to consider the fact that they themselves are directly responsible for such a condition? Constance Talmadge asks the question. It isn't very often that a woman can be brought, even momentarily, to consider this question from the man's point of view. But Constance has just had an impressive lesson during the filming of some of the episodes of "Dulcy," the finalization of the Broadway success. In "Dulcy," Miss Talmadge plays the role of a wife who would drive many a husband to the lunatic asylum. And all because she insists on trying to help hubby out in his business. Many wives make the mistake of thinking that their good intentions entitle them to meddle in their husband's affairs, said Miss Talmadge. "They are entirely practical in the management of their household but cannot be brought to see that their husband's affairs are so much more complicated. What on the surface seems to be plain, matter-of-fact plan may in reality be a piece of subtle strategy. You go many wives will meet in wedlock."

"Dulcy," the role portrayed by Miss Talmadge, is the kind of wife who insists on mixing in, despite her husband's pleas, just when he is making a plan for his future. She means well but her mistakes nearly drive her husband and the others involved in the point of distraction. Women and wives should respect the privacy of their husbands' business, "Dulcy," with Miss Talmadge starring, and co-starring by a cast including Jack Mulhall, Claude Gillingwater and Johnny Burton, will be presented at the Strand for the last three days of the week, starting with matinee on Thursday.

The second feature on the bill will be "The Night Message," a melodramatic thriller, with an all-star cast. It's a Universal special and is said to rank with the very best of its kind. The usual comedy and variety will help make the offering one of great enjoyment.

R. P. KEITH'S THEATRE

One of the best all-around bills ever presented here is that which is on parade at the R. P. Keith theatre, this week. Without a headline, it is pretty much all headlines, from bottom to top, and it is capped by one of the most striking pictures of the whole season. Wilfred Charles, former Singsong actor, is seen in one of the swiftest of farces, and his support is first rate. Then there are Crafts and Bailey, in a turn which is full of wit and music. Bert Rennie and George Fennell, in a comedy of the week-end, and a white behind in their exhibition of music, interspersed with salutes of wit, and one of the swiftest of dancing acts is that of Vernon Hinder and Eddie McFarlane. Finally, and last, "Monograms," a pleasing feature, while Noble, swimmer and diver, in her underwater stunts. The picture is "Let Not Man Put Asunder," with Lou Tellegen and Pauline Frederick starred.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Final performances will be given this afternoon and evening at the Merrimack Square theatre of "The Stranger," starring Betty Compson in a picture adapted from a John Galsworthy novel.

She was the rage of Broadway, a mystery woman whose secret was deep as the port of Russia that lay hidden in her eyes. She was Olga Farnova, beautiful, luscious, desired by men.

Of all the men who paid homage to fascinating Farnova, none loved her so sincerely, so passionately as Eric van Corland, the son of an old Dutchman family, who at last she succumbed to his entreaties, gave up her dancing career and married him. But the plot is not dead to the living and out of Farnova's past, like a hideous spectre of a nightmare, came Kaminoff, the man with a scar and a vengeance unfulfilled. On the same ship that bore him from Russia was the peasant girl, Zita, coming to this great, strange country to find her sister.

There's the setting for "Fashion Row," the new Mae Murray picture which opens a three days' engagement at the Merrimack Square tomorrow afternoon. "Fashion Row" is a double picture in that it shows the popular star in a dual role. It is just as lavishly produced as usual. You have seen Mae Murray at her merriest and you have seen her as the butterfly of the drawing room, but you've never seen a Mae Murray like the star of "Fashion Row." In the role of two sisters, one the transcendentalized on Broadway, and the other a raked-off Russian peasant girl, Miss Murray is amazing. She displays a wealth of rich gown and dances as she never danced before. In the supporting cast are Earle Foxe, Freeman Wood and Elmo Lincoln, all well known screen stars.

The other big attraction for the week-end is Herbert Rawlinson, one of Scotland's most popular stars, in "The Victor," a picture of action and romance. Will Rogers in "Hustling Hank," one of his best comedies; the Boston Post based play, "The Borg of the Wire," and the latest International News.

RIALTO THEATRE

The Wednesday Night Professional Playhouse at the Rialto are becoming more popular each week as can be judged by the crowds which are enjoying these fine vaudeville acts. For that's just what they are, real vaudeville acts. For those who are not acquainted with the fact it must be explained that every Wednesday night at the Rialto in addition to the big regular picture program, four big acts are given and there is no advance in prices. An unusually good program has been arranged for tonight so make it a point to get in early in order to avoid disappointment or not getting seats. The picture which will be shown for the last time tonight are: "Hustling Hank" with Will Rogers and Clara Kimball Young in "Cordelia the Magnificent."

Few if any of us have failed to try something to learn that "You Can't Get Away With It." Disregard the convention severely and eventually the world has found out about it. They took openly and the world condoned. Taking this general theme as its basis, a picture has been produced by William Fox from the story by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly. The picture is "You Can't Get Away With It." Opening for the first time in Lowell this picture will be shown at the Rialto for three days starting Thursday.

Percy Marmont who has become famous since his portrayal of Mark Saxon in "If Winter Comes," has the leading role in the new picture and by odd coincidence, his part is similar to the one that made his name known throughout the country. As Mark Sabre, he appeared as the unhappy husband, hungry for love, who finds the girl he actually does love. The same thing occurs in "You Can't Get Away With It." Leading support in the cast are Madeline McGraw, Barbara Tennant, Charles Selwyn and Charles Crust.

The story concerns a wealthy girl who suddenly finds herself cast adrift on her own. She takes a department store job and finds it beyond her ability. The inevitable offer comes from her employer, luxury, love and idleness, in exchange for the world's respect. She accepts. But "You Can't Get Away With It." She couldn't, nor could he. It's a corking good story, having nothing to say and the producers promise that it has been given every element at their command to make it as nearly perfect as a play on life can be.

"You Can't Get Away With It," when first shown to New York audiences who are considered "show wise" in every respect, created a sensation and was acclaimed as one of the finest pictures on life ever made.

"When the Desert Calls," the companion feature with a cast including the prominent stage star, Violet Heming, Sheldon Lewis and Robert Frazer is billed as a romance of the burning sands and it is all of that. Here is one desert picture without any "Shells" and one that will please.

A Fox Imperial comedy is also on this splendid picture bill which is sure to join the Rialto to capacity the latter half of the week.

Bill Pends to Give Letter Carriers Increase—President Coolidge Admits They Are Entitled to More Pay But Fears Drain on Treasury

BY CHARLES P. STEWART, JR.
WASHINGTON, March 18.—Your mail carrier is a mighty dependable chap. He's so dependable you hardly realize you're receiving the service he renders day by day. There are so few, if any, exceptions, that it's safe to set this down as a fact, anywhere, without any qualifications at all. The odds are many to one that you are, but in time of storm it's no joke; it may mean real suffering. Your mail carrier is a man of some education; he has to be. He's a mine of information on the subject of Uncle Sam's mails. This means he must have had experience. He must be a diplomat and more as a fact, anywhere, without any qualifications at all. ## WOMAN VICTIM OF MURDER

Dr. Zoe Wilkins, Wealthy Adventuress in Matrimony Beaten to Death

Was Married and Divorced Four Times—Police Seek to Solve Mysterious Slaying

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 18.—The financial affairs of Dr. Zoe Wilkins, wealthy adventuress in matrimony, are being delved into by the police in an effort to solve her mysterious and gruesome murder discovered last night. Dr. Wilkins, 35, a practicing osteopath and once the wife of the late Thomas W. Cunningham, a banker of Joplin, Mo., from whom she obtained more than $300,000 before he divorced her, was beaten and slashed to death in a terrific fight in her home some time since Saturday night.

The slaying was revealed when Mrs. L. F. Palmer went to collect rent. Dr. Wilkins kept hidden in her home, according to Jesse E. Janna, her attorney. He said she lived in constant fear of her life.

That Dr. Wilkins tangled financial affairs will be found a motive for the murder is the belief of the police, although several other leads are being developed. Dr. Wilkins spent lavishly after she induced her banker-husband to turn over to her a large part of his wealth, but lately there were indications that she was not so prosperous. As a student of osteopathy, at Kirksville, Mo., Dr. Wilkins, when 12, began her matrimonial ventures. She married a fellow student named Dryer, from whom she separated in Texas about a year later. Next she married Dr. C. K. Harrington, from whom she also separated. In 1916 she married Cunningham, the Joplin banker, after being his companion for two years. Her chauffeur-companion, A. W. Marshfield, an automobile dealer of Colorado Springs, Colo., was her next husband, and that venture also ended in divorce.

JAPANESE AMBASSADOR IN NEW PROTEST

TOKYO, March 18. (By the Associated Press.)—Japanese Ambassador Hanabara, at Washington today was instructed to protest anew against execution of Article 25 of the United States shipping laws providing for preferential railway freight rates on cargo carried to and from United States on American vessels. The foreign office here contends that provision, which has been suspended since 1920, violates articles 1 and 6 of the treaty of commerce and navigation of 1911.

PATTERSON'S PLAN TO DEFAUD BANKS

The March number of the American Bankers' Association Journal contains the following item about Edgar A. Patterson, the youth who was arrested in the Middlesex National bank here a few months ago for passing worthless checks: "Edgar A. Patterson, having adopted a plan to defraud banks throughout the country, left his boarding house in Detroit, Mich., one morning and set about to further his schemes. Later his landlady received a telephone call supposedly from the Western Union Telegraph company advising a fire had been transmitted for her, requesting that she retain Patterson's room until a given date. His failure to return aroused suspicion and resulted in the discovery of the fake phone call. A search of his room revealed numerous bank and check books carried under various names. An investigation was made and Patterson was located in Lowell, Mass., where he is being held under arrest for attempting to defraud a member bank by the use of bogus checks. It was this which prevented his return to Detroit on the specified date. The operator is now being held to await trial. Some of the aliases used are P. A. Grant, Donald C. Baldwin, Edwin R. Jordan, Edward R. Holland, Arthur Garland, Henry R. Payne, Robert E. Packham, Albert J. Rice and Homer A. Coleman."

The story may be correct in all but one particular. Patterson is not awaiting trial in Lowell as he defaulted, in 1920, a few days after his release from a cell. He is still at large.

The National Association of Letter Carriers submits that patrons of the parcel post are making this saving at the carrier's expense. It doesn't seem to them quite fair.

Family Needs $2052 The mail carrier has a family, too. The Congressional Record published figures recently which indicate that as a representative city, fixed $2052.88 as the smallest sum on which a family of five could live decently in 1923.

The mail carrier and his family, then, are $205.36 below the decency line, even supposing the carrier receives the maximum and doesn't lose a working hour out of the year, a practical impossibility, of course.

Accordingly, Senator Edgar of New Jersey and Representative Kelly of Pennsylvania have joint bills pending in congress to advance city carriers to $2200 after the second year and to $2100 after the third.

Parcel Post Losses President Coolidge is, reluctantly, against the increase. The carriers are entitled to more, he says, but he adds that the increase, he fears, would impose on the treasury an additional drain it can't stand.

Maybe so, replies Congressman Kelly, but consider that the postoffice is the only enterprise which hasn't increased its charges to meet increased operating costs.

He estimates parcel post losses to the department at $205,206,241.96 annually.

To be sure, the first gangs will not be large, numbering in all not more than 75 men, but it is an assured fact that when the street railway track gangs start on their seasonal work the hands of winter have loosened their grip on the city.

The first work to be undertaken by these men will be the replacement of worn ties and damaged rail on the Hillside, Lawrence, Chelmsford Centre and Lakeview lines. Following closely on the heels of the track gang will come the flushers, the men who operate the grinding and welding machines and with the completion of their work on the rails and road bed, passengers on these lines will be assured of a smooth, comfortable ride.

Following the completion of this repair work, the gangs will be augmented considerably and the first new work started. What this work will be depends upon what streets the street department starts work upon first. Among the important jobs scheduled for the year are the replacement with a double rail of the Chelmsford Centre single rail on Chelmsford street from White street to as far as the street department puts in a smooth paved roadway, the replacement of the double rail on Bridge street from Seventh street to a point as far as the street department puts in a new road; and the replacement of the double rail on Lakeview avenue from West street to Alken street.

Why Many Women Give Much Thought to This Question

Every woman will admit that the most important ingredient for cake-making is the shortening she uses.

It is because of this, and the thought given to the matter, that Mazola has taken the place of butter in so many homes.

A housewife writes: "One day I was making a cake for supper and discovered I had no butter to use for shortening. I tried Mazola, which is always in our kitchen for salad dressings, and I have never used any other shortening for cakes since that day.

"My cakes are now better grained, light as a feather and never crumble.

"Of course, Mazola costs me less than butter, and I use 1/4 to 1/3 less than amount named for butter."

That's the story about Mazola for shortening in the proverbial "nut-shell."

Yet, back of this growing popularity of Mazola for shortening is a very pleasant thought:

The source of Mazola is as pure, appetizing and wholesome as this delicious oil is itself. If you like "corn-on-the-cob" you can't help liking Mazola. For this pure cooking and salad oil is made from the hearts of full-ripened corn—America's Greatest Cereal.

When you think of cake-making, think of Mazola—use it once and you will never go back to using expensive butter.

AN IMPORTANT REMINDER

"Mazola is as delicious and good to eat as the corn from which it comes."

The Operation I Avoided—

MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN
SIDELL, ILL.

IF there is one thing more than another a woman dreads, it is a surgical operation, and to be told that one is necessary is very disheartening.

Hospitals are grand institutions, and undoubtedly many operations are necessary. However, we have received hundreds of letters from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after an operation had been deemed advisable.

Every woman who suffers as Mrs. Coffman did naturally wishes to avoid an operation if possible, and the remarkable statements which she makes in her letter will be read with interest by women everywhere.

Mrs. Coffman's Letter Follows:

SIDELL, ILLINOIS.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side which was noticeable at all times but sometimes it was almost unbearable and I could not even lie at night. In one week's time I began to feel better. I took seven bottles of it and also some of the Liver Pills and used your Sensitive Wash and I soon gained my health. I recommend your medicines to all women who feel badly and have troubles of this kind and I will answer all letters sent to me by women."—MRS. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. R. No. 2, Sidell, Illinois.

Another Operation Avoided

DAYTON, OHIO.—"I was sick for eight weeks and had three doctors. They told me I would have to be operated upon before I would be any better. My sister told me about the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In one week's time I began to feel better. I took seven bottles of it and also some of the Liver Pills and used your Sensitive Wash and I soon gained my health. ## CHAMPIONSHIP CLAIM BY HOSE COMPANY 8

Hose Company No. 8, located at the fire station at Race and Merrimack streets, claims the city record for laying and bringing into action a 150 foot section of hose.

Yesterday, while Lt. John Ambrose, fire drill instructor, held a stop watch, this company under Capt. Charles Stackpole laid 150 feet of hose from a hose wagon, attached it to a hydrant and put it into action on the second floor of the fire house, all in 22 seconds flat.

Continuing their drill, they uncoupled the middle section of hose, which theoretically had burst, and put in a new section and again had the hose in action, this later evolution taking 20 seconds and making a total for the complete drill of 42 seconds.

Lt. Ambrose is proud of the boys up at Hose 8 but believes some of the other companies will soon take the record away from them for several hose companies are practicing daily.

Fire drills are conducted at least once each week in each fire house in the city, one shift being under the supervision of Lt. Ambrose and the other under District Chief Crowley. Since the weather has become mild enough to permit of outdoor drills, the firemen have got into the spirit of competition and insist that they be timed in all their evolutions. At the rate the "boys" are going now, Lt. Ambrose believes some sort of a contest will have to be held to determine which company is the best. If the spirit of competition is kept up, Lt. Ambrose believes the Lowell fire department will soon be at the top of the list for efficiency in handling their apparatus.

NATIVES PREFER BULLETS TO BALLOTS IN MEXICO

BY BOB DORNAN
N.R.A. Service Writer

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 18—Why has Mexico so many revolutions?

At the present moment the Italians of America are fulfilling their presidential primary, with bullets cast instead of ballots.

The returns are about all in—the government seems to have been the winner.

But behind it all—this selecting presidents with bullets instead of with ballots—there is a reason.

And that reason is—Indians.

For the population of Mexico is essentially Indian.

Eighty-five per cent are of Indian and mixed blood, with the Indian traits predominating.

And the Indian has never with any great degree of success accepted the white man's civilization.

To cross the border into Mexico is to turn back the clock of time 200 years—in some ways.

From modern Pullmans running on a modern railway one looks out upon a land cultivated as it was in centuries past.

Oxen hooked to a forced stick plow the earth.

Water is drawn by hand in buckets from wells in order to irrigate the fields.

Of course the big estates under the management of the foreigner use the most modern agricultural implements.

But the natives do not like modern implements.

Take the case of the Santa Inez ranch near Cuatli.

Two carloads of the most modern agricultural implements were installed under the urge of an American salesman. The wages of the workers were doubled. New houses of wood were constructed for them.

A year later the American returned, thinking that with the showing this ranch must have made under progressive management, he would be able to make large sales to the neighboring ranches.

He found the modern implements, broken and rusted, stored in a barn.

The wages were back to normal and the workers were once more living in the brush shacks to which they were accustomed.

They had deliberately wrecked the new implements; the larger wages had caused them to lay off as soon as they had earned the amount to which they were accustomed; and the nice, new wooden houses were gratefully received as it saved them the labor of obtaining firewood from the woods.

Extreme, maybe—but typical.

The Indian is by hereditary avers to labor. He prefers to hunt and fish.

The accumulation of wealth, the provision against old age, the ambition to rise above his fellows, have no part in his makeup.

With the country at peace under an imitation of civilized government, he must work in order to live.

But in a state of war, with freedom to steal and loot, with his support coming from the country of which he lives, his life is an ideal one. He takes his women to war with him, to do his cooking, to do the chores that must be done.

He is again the warrior, with no duty except to fight and to amuse himself.

Hence he is easily led to take the warpath. It means freedom from work—from civilized duties that irk him.

He follows some leader, it doesn't matter whom. If captured, he joins the victor. He isn't fighting for a principle—just because he loves fighting, because it frees him from the necessity of work.

A Greater Lowell and A Greater Cherry & Webb Co. Store

THE four pictures shown in this advertisement will convey to you in progressive form an idea of the growth and progress of Cherry & Webb's. The pictures illustrate more clearly than words could tell the story. You will note the store of 1890, in which this institution first became identified with the retail business of Lowell. In 1903 the next step forward was made, and again in 1907 a very considerable step forward was effected, as the picture shows. The present store on the corner of Merrimack and John Streets is almost completed and marks the latest development of our constantly expanding business.

STEP by step the business of Cherry & Webb has grown from the small beginning of 1890, in very limited space, to one of the largest women's specialty stores in New England—and by far the largest in Lowell. It has been a safe and sane growth, not spasmodic or sensational, but a steady climb—upward and onward—gaining at the start the good will and confidence of the public, which we have kept throughout the 34 years of our career in Lowell.

THE continuous growth and expansion of this business is the logical result of our merchandising policy. For 34 years we have bent every effort to provide our patrons comprehensive selections of dependable, desirable merchandise at the lowest prices consistent with quality.

We move on to Still Greater Things for we are in Lowell and the City of Lowell Spells Progress

In a short time we shall announce the opening of the completed new building—which will give us about 20,000 additional square feet of floor space. Every appointment will be in keeping with the advancing requirements of a growing Lowell.

Our Greater Building and Expansion Sale Just Completed

Packed our aisles with thousands of new customers who will be retained a permanent friend by the abiding recollection of the quality of the merchandise. It was a pronounced success, disposing of all winter merchandise, enabling us to start the spring season with fresh new merchandise in every department of our great store.

To Our Patrons:

We thank you for the generous recognition you have accorded our efforts to serve you. We thank you for your forbearance when we may have failed at some instance to measure up to the high standards of excellence in service that we have set as our ideal. We thank you for your continued and ever increasing support.

(Signed),

Cherry & Webb Co.

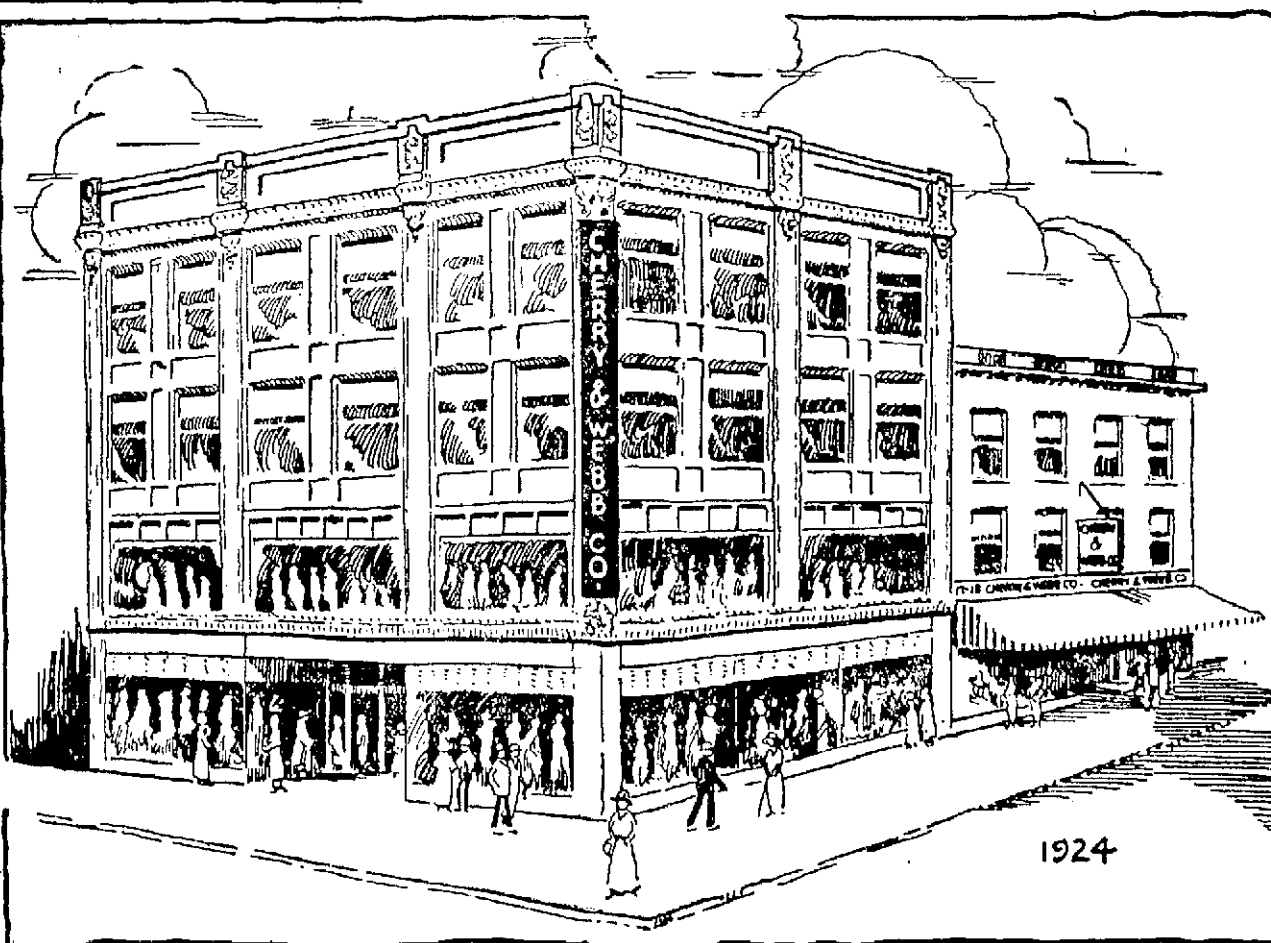

WILLIAM S. CHERRY, President

To Our Employees:

It is with a feeling of sincere appreciation that we make public recognition of your loyal co-operation. You have worked faithfully with us and have kept ever before you the ideals of service that must inevitably mean success to any enterprise. We thank you for your loyalty in the past, and bespeak for the future your continued striving toward those high standards of excellence by which we would measure our service to the community.

To all our friends, new and old, we extend at this time our sincerest thanks for the confidence they have placed in us, and we pledge our earnest endeavors to strive constantly to attain further improvement in our service to the shopping public.

Believes in Vacations, Changes in Environment, Care in Eating, Sleep

By HAROLD R. MATSON
N.E.A. Service Writer
CAMBRIDGE, March 19.—A prescription for health and mental alertness was given by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University, in a short, explicit prescription for keeping health and working power, probably because many and various causes have contributed to the result, he says.

"That I have borne much labor and responsibility without suffering even temporary breakdowns, seems to be due after the inheritance of a sound constitution to my possession of a good muscular and nervous system, prescribed by open air exercise and the habit of moderate eating."

"It may have contributed to the fortunate result that at no time of my life have I ever made use of nervous stimulants like tea, coffee, tobacco or alcohol, although I have never been a total abstemious from any of these stimulants except coffee. When I have taken them I have always been in diluted form."

Reaches 90th Birthday Tomorrow

DR. CHARLES WILLIAM ELIOT
President Emeritus, Harvard University

In honor of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University for 40 years, and now president emeritus, his 90th birthday will be celebrated tomorrow afternoon in Cambridge, under the auspices of the Harvard Alumni Association.

Harvard clubs and an honorary committee of citizens, comprised of prominent men all over the country. President Eliot is serving as chairman of this committee.

The public tribute will take place in Sanders Theatre at 2 o'clock. Invited guests will be made by Hon. Edward T. Gerry, senator of the supreme court of the United States, and president of the Harvard Alumni Association, Arthur Lawrence Lowell, president of the university, George W. F. Phillips, dean of the faculty, and other members of the board of overseers.

Dr. Eliot is a man of 60, although he has recently undertaken to guard his physical strength, living somewhat of a secluded life.

Close associates assert that he is as intellectually alert today as he was 15 years ago when he retired from the post as head of Harvard.

Perhaps the outstanding thing about his intellectual interests is that he looks forward, never backward. He is interested in tomorrow, not yesterday. The future of humanity holds his attention, never his past.

He has absolute faith in democracy, firmly believing that education and religion are the fundamentals of democracy.

ST. COLUMBA'S CHURCH ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON IRELAND

Lenten Sermon by Rev. Denis A. O'Brien of St. Paul's Church, Cambridge

Rev. Denis A. O'Brien, Ph.D., S.T.L., a former Lowell boy, now of St. Paul's church, Cambridge, delivered the second in the series of Lenten sermons in St. Columba's church last night. His text, taken from Proverbs xxviii, 20, xxviii, 18, was: "A faithful man shall be much praised, and he that is the keeper of his master shall be glorified."

The text referred to St. Joseph, of whom the preacher said: "St. Joseph is known and loved as the patron of a happy death, but he is also the patron of a happy life. Like St. Joseph every Catholic is the guardian and protector of Our Lord and His Mother. Their honor is in our hands and it is our blessed privilege to respect and love them and protect them by our care from the hardships of unbelievers. Intimate as was the life of St. Joseph with Our Lord, ours is even more so. We have Him always in the Blessed Sacrament so that we can be in His company at all times and as long as we live. He went down with us to the depths of our ingratitude, coldness and carelessness. He who was subject to them is at the back and call of our sinners. He waits for us in the tabernacle, ready to lead us, through the city streets amidst the unknown and unknown as he went to the daughter of Jarius."

REV. DENIS A. O'BRIEN

"It is only as a child that we ever see Jesus by the side of St. Joseph. Only as an infant does He live the arms of Joseph. Now the Blessed Sacrament is the most perfect type of the infancy of Our Saviour; for it is in the Blessed Sacrament that Jesus leads that retired, hidden and helpless life that He led as a child at Nazareth. Here, in the church, transferred into Nazareth, Jesus, as hidden and helpless as there, and we the Josephs and Marys, the watchers and protectors of our hidden God."

"Joseph was first of all a man of faith. Faith easily understands the things of faith. When many minds are trying to reason away the teachings of faith concerning the divinity of Our Blessed Lord, and the unique prerogatives of His Virgin Mother, we may well take pause to St. Joseph. He had many trials to share his confidence and trust his faith, but his confidence was unshakable and his confidence invulnerable."

"Joseph was a just man. His is the history of a plain simple life truly hidden with God. There is great need to these days for us to cultivate thorough nervousness in Our Lord a sense of justice that we may try to right the rampant injustices that so unremedied and almost unrebuked. The injustice of class arranged against class, and armed against class in bitter conflict; the injustice of selfishness; the injustice of the heinous disaster of countless innocent children; the injustice of parents' rights abrogated by the state—it is a heart-breaking litany in these days of our boasted civilization, and there is great need for prayer to an imitation of St. Joseph, the patron of family life. On the faith depends the stability of the state, and in the school or the home only are learned the lessons of citizenship of this world as well as of God's kingdom."

"The days and years will slip away, and there will come the Angel of Death will come to touch our busy lives into silence. God grant our dying to be a happy one with Jesus, Mary and Joseph with us in our last agony, so that our eyes closed in death will open to Him our risen Savior, and to him to reward us for the faithful service."

The sermon next Tuesday night will be delivered by Rev. Francis Doyle of St. Andrew's church, Jamaica Plain.

Inspector Connor followed the law in notifying the owner that the property in its present condition was a menace and when Mr. Hemmessey took exception to the order it was referred to arbitration, with the aforementioned result.

DAYLIGHT SAVING WILL START APRIL 27

When does daylight saving actually start this year? Lively discussions have been started over less important problems, and few citizens will agree as to the exact date for turning back the hands of the kitchen clock in this year of our Lord 1924.

Daylight saving starts on Sunday morning, April 27. Some confusion is being caused at present as to the fact that daylight saving this year starts on the last Sunday in March and lasts until the last Sunday in October. Thus, this was the period originally set by the general laws of Massachusetts for daylight saving, but the law was amended in 1921 so that this year daylight saving will begin on the last Sunday in April and will last only until the last Sunday in September.

Many people who acquired the annual habit of changing their watches on the last Sunday in March, have been preparing to do so again this year. As a matter of fact, the change to April was made as a concession to the farmers, who objected and still object to the system in its entirety.

The last Sunday in April comes on the 27th day of the month. It will be entirely proper if you happen to think it is to turn ahead the hands on watches and clocks one hour upon retiring on the night of April 26. You lose an hour's sleep that night, of course, but you get it back on Sept. 25—five months later.

JURY AGAIN DISAGREES IN DELORME TRIAL

MONTREAL, March 12.—For the second time a jury disagreed today at the trial of Adelard Delorme, former priest, charged with the murder of his half brother, Raoul Delorme. The jurors were dismissed after several hours' deliberation.

After a jury had been unable to agree on a verdict after Delorme's first trial, the court ordered him held in an asylum for the insane. Physicians recently declared Delorme to be mentally competent and the second trial was ordered.

When today's disagreement was announced in court, the judge adjourned the session until tomorrow. Meanwhile crown officials will confer as to further action in the case.

G. O. P. Convention

had been consumed between oil operators and the possible nominee. It was a conversation he had after the convention with Senator Thompson, an Ohio republican leader, who was the nominee of his party for governor in 1922. Gilmore said there was some discussion of a land claim Thompson was interested in.

"What land did you refer to when you asked Senator Thompson if he had the land?" asked Senator Gilmore, republican, New Mexico.

"The whole air was so charged I cannot tell. My impression was that it was some land adjacent to Bakersfield, Cal. I had never heard of Tex. Pot. before that time."

Mr. Gilmore (Clare Hamon), republican national committeeman for Oklahoma, had anything to do with it?"

Hamon Mixed Up In It

"I don't know what oil companies were in it. I do think, however, that a young man named Miller told me Hamon was mixed up in it."

"You really know nothing of those matters except gossip on the street?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know who told you?"

"No, sir."

Asked by Senator Walsh if he knew what reply General Wood had made, Gilmore said:

"Wood termed it 'Shady Deal'."

"I was told he walked up and down at his hotel and said it was a 'shady deal'. He would have nothing to do with it, and that they would have to defeat him."

With that the witness was excused and the committee called James H. Den, a man of many adventures, whose name has been interviewed with the chairman in both the Daugherty and Tex. Pot. cases. Den, however, said he had tried to avoid service of the committee's subpoena. He said he was away from home a good deal, but had been by the newspapers that he was sought and immediately had notified W. J. Burns of the department of justice.

Den Testifies

Darden said he had known President Harding a long time and had become intimate with him during the pre-convention campaign in 1920.

"Did you aid in bringing about his nomination?"

"I did everything I could."

"Did you raise any money?"

"Among my friends, some of my democratic friends, including some in New York."

"Did you know Joseph Hall of New York?"

"I do. I met him during the Harding campaign. He came to see us and wanted to help. Mr. Daugherty was there."

Darden said he also became intimate with the Attorney General Daugherty during the Harding campaign. He said that Senator Walsh took the inquiry to Tex. Pot. Darden and Darden launched into a long recital of how he had been in the Salt Creek field as well as in the naval reserves. He said there were 100 acres in Tex. Pot. involved, and twice as much outside. It was during the Wilson administration, Darden said, that he took the matter up with the interior department.

Asserting that a Mr. Taylor had decided to contest with him his right to the land on Tex. Pot. Darden said: "Mr. Taylor came down and employed a Mr. Wilson, the president's brother. Mr. Payne (the secretary of the interior) decided in our favor for a small acreage. He never said anything about the 100 acres."

"I never discussed it with Mr. Harding," Darden said, "in my life until this matter came up," said the witness.

Darden said he learned through "gossip" that Harry Sinclair was to get Tex. Pot. Darden two months before the lease was signed on April 2, 1922. This "gossip" came from oil men who were coming and going at Washington constantly, Darden said.

"Did you take it up with President Harding and Mr. Daugherty?" asked Senator Walsh, democrat, Washington.

"I did," was the reply. "I went first to see Assistant Secretary Finney of the interior department, who told me an old man was handling the matter."

Summoned by Harding

Later, Darden said, he saw Albert B. Hall, then secretary of the interior, who told him he had no claim. He then went west to see John F. C. Thompson, one of his partners, he said, without seeing President Harding, but the president later wrote him a letter, calling him to Washington.

"Have you that letter?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I have it home and can furnish it," Darden testified that he got his claims from the Helge Co., one of those Sinclair bought out after he secured the lease. He presented what purported to be a copy of the deed which was included in a bill of complaint against the Mammoth Oil Co., by Darden and his partners, Campbell and Robert G. Taylor.

"What did you pay for your share of this?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I don't know exactly, Campbell and Taylor were to finance it and I was to pay my proportion."

Robert G. Taylor, counsel for Darden, said the bill was gained as a result of a compromise with the Helge Co., which had a dispute over claims with Campbell and Taylor.

Pressed as to what he was to have paid, Darden said it was not settled, and never had been settled finally. He recalled one payment of about $2500 as expenses incident to the fight with the Helge Co., before the compromise in June, 1920.

"When did you apply, if you ever did apply, for a lease for the 100 acres?"

"I never did apply."

BRYAN 64 YEARS OLD TODAY

LINCOLN, Neb., March 19.—William Jennings Bryan, 64 years old today, as usual came back to Lincoln, his former home, to spend his birthday. Lincoln will honor him at a public meeting tonight after a strenuous day's program. He will have luncheon at the executive mansion with his brother, Governor Charles W. Bryan, attend a family dinner, and reunion and address the meetings.

The Daugherty Investigation

yesterday that the department of justice had been prima facie in prosecuting lotteries and to hear testimony of J. H. Dawkins, a Texas postoffice inspector.

Attorney General Daugherty's counsel brought out the government had been prosecuting the "concerns" of the lottery law, as he contended they had not been prosecuted under the lottery law, as he contended they should have been. The attorney general counsel announced that he did not wish to cross-examine any and he was extended indefinitely.

The hearing will resume at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Tex. Richard on Hand

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Following an over-riding net of the Daugherty investigation committee dipped still deeper into the diverse, shifting, mass of testimony already brought to the surface.

Meanwhile, with the testimony of many witnesses suspended temporarily before the point of cross-examination is reached while sudden attacks are taken aloft various lines of evidence, Attorney General Daugherty was again before the house, with a statement in which he declared the committee was occupying its time with "rumor, gossip and unreliable hearsay evidence emanating from limited sources."

Two cabinet officers—Secretaries Mellon and Weeks—and a number of present and former high officials of the department were summoned by the committee and are expected to be questioned next week about various points in the testimony of other witnesses. These officials include Probation Commissioner Hayes, Comptroller of the Currency, Charles D. Smith, Chief of the Internal Revenue Bureau, Elmer Leever, former assistant secretary of the treasury, Assistant Attorney General John W. H. Crum and Henry W. Anderson, H. D. Volpe, former commissioner and brother-in-law of the late President Harding, and James A. Finch, pardon attorney in the department of justice.

TAX AND BONUS BILLS IN HANDS OF SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 19.—With both the tax reduction and soldier bonus bills in the hands of the senate today an early decision is expected on a program for their consideration.

Although the senate finance committee has been considering the revenue bill for two weeks, none of the rate schedules have been taken up and John Thomas Taylor of the national legislative committee of the American Legion, announced today he would ask for immediate disposition of the bonus bill, which it also must pass upon.

The new bonus bill providing for paid-up 20-year employment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $10 in adjusted compensation, passed the house yesterday by a vote of 255 to 51.

The old bill provided also for options of vocational training or farm and home aid with cash payment and deferred payment certificate provisions corresponding to the proposals contained in the new measure.

The change in the bonus plan is expected to extend consideration of it to the senate since many members are opposed, according to the American Legion, to the support of the scheme worked out in the old bill. The revision last night, however, endorsed the house action on the new bill.

REQUESTED TO BRING IN NEW MEMBERS

Commander David P. Coddell of Walker-Hewitt post No. 662, has asked each member of his command to try and bring in one new member at the next regular meeting on March 25.

At a meeting today Commander William Robinson, post senior vice commander, recently met with a score of new members at a social gathering in Philadelphia, Pa. An operation has been performed and the veteran is reported to be feeling comfortably.

Commanders of Lowell and vicinity are sending reminders.

The social committee of Post 662 reports the recent entertainment as a profitable one as well as one that proved entirely successful in every respect. Other social events are to be programmed later on.

The committee assigned to the task of securing new members, will report at the next regular meeting, thus are called for, also, and will be received by Quartermaster Finney, who is to make his final report at the committee meeting, when action will also be taken on Memorial day programs and the "Poppy Day" campaign to be held this year as usual.

BUDGET FOR LOWELL BOY SCOUTS COUNCIL

Preparations for the work of drawing up a budget for Lowell council, Boy Scouts of America, to present to the executives of the new "community chest," were made this afternoon, at a special meeting of the council's executive committee held in the building headquarters.

Lowell Boy Scouts may be represented at the second B. S. International convention in Copenhagen, Denmark, in July. It will take about $500 to pay the expenses of a Lowell boy, and the council believe it can be secured by subscription and personal giving.

The committee held a general discussion on Lowell scouting matters, and also received letters.

AUTOMATIC DIAL TELEPHONES COMING

Automatic dial telephones will replace the present hand-operated boards for subscribers in Lowell and vicinity some day, but not right away, it was stated this morning by the chief of the engineering department at the N.E.T. & T. company's Lowell headquarters.

It is said that it will be two or three years before the new machine switching telephone system, now being installed in Greater Boston for 2,000 subscribers, and also in the city of Lawrence, where work on the new machine is now underway, will be started in Lowell. There is no possibility of "changing over" in Lowell for a long time to come. The Sun was informed, because of the magnitude of the task ahead of the telephone corporation already in other Massachusetts districts served.

The first machine switching telephone office in Boston will be placed in operation in the Liberty exchange next Saturday night at midnight. The transfer from the hand-operated switchboard will be made in the morning, without interruption of service, accommodating about 2,000 telephones in the Greater Boston district.

About ten days later, between 10 and 15 telephones now connected with the Boston Reach, Main, and Congress central offices will be transferred to machine switching operation. These transfers will continue daily until upwards of 2,000 telephones are connected with Liberty, one of the new district name calls. Additional equipment being installed, and in the new district name calls, there will be a second transfer of subscribers from Main and Congress, when the capacity of the new equipment will control 2,000 telephones.

The Liberty machine switching office will be the third in the telephone company's territory to be put into operation. Chas. J. Pringle, was put in operation about a year ago, and Applewell, in Brookline, last summer. Following Liberty, the next machine switching office to be opened will be in Milton in June.

Machine switching installations are now being placed in Allston, Newton and the Back Bay. In addition to the Back Bay building is now under construction, in which will be placed a new switching office.

A new telephone building is practically completed in Lawrence, and Lowell telephone users will be able to talk to Lawrence folks via the machine switching system to be opened in that city some time next month.

The first step of any consequences looking to the settlement of the strike of more than 1200 employees at the plant of the Pacific Mills corporation in Dover, in effect since November 1 last, was made this afternoon, when the strikers agreed to meet at the Dover open house to listen to a proposal for a settlement to be advanced by John S. The services of Mr. Davies were solicited by the strikers when all attempts at conferences with the Pacific mill management failed.

JOHN MUELLER FOUND PEACE IN OLD BOILER ON FLORIDA ROAD

JOHN MUELLER, WHO LIVED IN A BOILER, ARROW INDICATES WHERE HIS BUNK WAS BUILT.

By N.E.A. Service
GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 18.—"The Old Man Who Lived in a Boiler" is dead. Unlike "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," John Mueller lived in solitude.

Several years ago he shuffled his palsied way down the road to Gainesville, burdened with more than four score years. His former abode, with rheumatism and his heart with a long yearning for peace and contentment.

There, along the road, was a rusty, discarded boiler. He crept into it, to find a moment's seclusion from the strife of the passing world. Within it seemed there was a little world all his own.

And so John Mueller fixed a bunk for himself. He obtained an old stove, a bed, a chair, a table, and a lamp. The peace he had sought all his life was his at last.

Forty-six years ago he left Germany, after serving in two wars. He said that he was a true cousin of Kaiser Wilhelm, but cousin or no cousin, he wanted no more of fighting.

In America he found no wars. But he found that here as everywhere men live in combat of wills, that all of life is a battle, and so as a crusader seeking peace for himself he set out on a long journey—that ended when he found that old boiler alongside the road.

When he died it was found that he had saved $5 in small coins against burial in a pauper's grave. And when he was laid away there were tears in the eyes of those who had understood the love of peace that had been in the heart of "The Old Man Who Lived in a Boiler."

NEW YORK, March 19.—Stock market operations imparted a firm tone to opening prices in today's stock market. Low and medium priced rails were again in good demand. Erie first preferred and Chesapeake & Ohio continued their rise to higher ground.

Local favorites, which were heavily sold yesterday, rallied a point. Discarded boiler. He crept into it, to find a moment's seclusion from the strife of the passing world. Within it seemed there was a little world all his own.

Prices continued their upward trend in the early dealings with the principal fluctuations taking place in the specialties. Standard Industrial showed little change except for a renewal of selling pressure against Studabaker, which yielded 1/2. Other automotive stock made good recovery from early selling. Mack Truck, Fisher Body and Maxwell A rising 1/4 to nearly 2 points. General Electric moved up 1/4 to 22 1/2, a new high since 1922.

Other strong points included Central Leather preferred, Matheson Alkali, National Lead and Colorado Fuel, up 1/2 to 3 points. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Concentrating on motor, independent steel and shipping shares, bear leaders later renewed selling pressure against the general list. Crucible was hammered down four points to a new low at 36. The Ingersoll Rand American International corporation declined, sent that stock to a new low. Chandler and Studabaker established new minimum prices, 53 1/2 and 96, respectively, and further broadened their range.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 18

"Hush up, there, old fellow!" shouted Jack, "those skin's won't hurt you." The hermit had noticed the dog's interest in the line of furs, and turning to Jack he said, "I believe your dog would make a good hunting hound. As soon as we make a big canoe we'll take him out and try him at it."

Then the hermit picked up a huge tool and handed it to Jack. "You carry this and follow me. I'll find a good log and then show you how to back out a canoe." After gathering some other tools the hermit led the way out of the tent and into a deep-freud portion of the woods.

Suddenly stopping in front of a partly dead tree he announced that he could make a real canoe out of the tree's trunk. Shortly he and Jack were sawing away and in no time at all the tree toppled over. "Now," said the hermit, "you just sit down on the ground and watch me work." (Continued.)

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

"THIS IS GREAT FOR ME!" HE SHOUTED AT THEM.

"Well, said Master Fuzz Wuzz, the pipe-cleaner man, when the twins got back to the courthouse in Doofunny Land, 'did you find the tin mouse?'

"Yes," said Nick, "he's under a board and won't come out. He says to tell you he isn't there!"

"That shows that his guilt is as plain as the tail on my back," said the patient-leather cat. "I knew it all the time."

"I'm not so sure about that," said the rubber dog, and he whistled indignantly through the top of his head, by drawing in a deep breath and then letting it out until his sides touched.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen," cried Master Fuzz Wuzz, bemused loudly. "This is no place to fight. And since the mouse won't come to court, the court will go to the mouse. Come, ladies and gentlemen."

The napkin rabbit saw them coming and flopped his ears with joy. "This is great for me!" he shouted at them. "I can't move because I am coming untied. But now I'll see everything."

"My goodness, gracious!" cried Nancy. "I never thought of it. Here I'll give you a good pull and you'll stay together for a long time. There! How's that?"

"Oh, fine, thank you!" cried the napkin rabbit, hopping around and

CITY COUNCIL VOTES TO ACCEPT MAYOR'S BUDGET FIGURES

Certain Appropriations Will Be Taken Up Later in Conference—Mayor's Nomination of Clarence M. Weed is Confirmed—Flannery Nomination Tabled

Further evidence that the city council appreciates how little it has to do with the annual budget was given at the meeting last night when after some discussion it was voted to accept the mayor's budget figures as presented, with the exception of the police, fire, health and charity departments and the divisions which come under the jurisdiction of the board of public service where work is carried along under loans after sufficient appropriations are made under the new finance law.

These departmental appropriations will be taken up later in conference with the mayor or his representative. The regular council session which preceded the budget discussion was featured by the confirmation of Clarence M. Weed as a member of the park commission for a term of five years; the tabling of the mayor's nomination of John J. Flannery to succeed Royal E. Desver as a member of the budget and audit commission; an adverse report by the ordinance committee on the ordinance to divide the charity department; and the second passage of the 1924 salary ordinance, held up from a previous meeting by notice of reconsideration.

Councilor Eugene A. Fitzgerald urged immediate action on the nomination of Mr. Flannery, but his motion to that effect was lost in a tie vote.

Councilor McFadden of ward 4 brought up the matter of wages being paid to laborers in the cemetery department and asked that the members of the cemetery commission be asked to meet with the council on the matter where an effort will be made to have an increase granted.

The regular council session got under way at 8.15 o'clock. Councilor Conner was absent.

Several hearings were given on petitions of the Electric Light Corp. and N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. for new pole locations in Agawam, Crawford, and Pleasant streets, and each was referred to district councilors.

A hearing to be given George A. Crawford of the fire department, who claims he was discriminated against in recent promotions from a civil service list, was postponed to April 1 on the quiet of the petitioners' attorney, Jeremiah J. O'Sullivan.

On motion of Councilor Fitzgerald the petition for hearing from the C.Y.M.C. on the question of installing a comfort station on the North common was given leave to withdraw. Councilor Fitzgerald explained that he offered the motion only after receiving the approval of the C.Y.M.C. president. Councilor Fitzgerald then introduced an order for $15,000 to cover the cost of such a building. It was ordered advertised and referred to the finance committee and park board.

Councilor Chadwick moved immediate action on the mayor's nomination of Clarence M. Weed as a member of the park commission for a term of five years. He received 14 votes and was confirmed.

Councilor Fitzgerald moved immediate action on the nomination of John J. Flannery to succeed Royal E. Desver as a member of the budget and audit commission. On a standing vote the motion lost on the question of a deadlock, 6 to 6. Councilor Daly did not vote either way. Councilors Chadwick, Christian, Dickson, Genest, Lambert and Stearns voted against immediate action and Councilors Fitzgerald, Honesssey, McFadden, McPadden, Moriarty and Sadler voted in favor. President Gallagher did not cast a deciding vote and the nomination went on the table.

A communication from Mayor John J. Donovan relative to the budget, asked the council to proceed to its deliberations as a year ago, questioning department heads as to desires and then take up any questionable departmental appropriations with his office later. The letter of the mayor was placed on file.

The question of reconsidering the 1924 salary ordinance was brought up by Councilor Fitzgerald, who said he spoke for Councilor Conner, who moved reconsideration at the last meeting, but who has been suddenly called out of town. He asked that the ordinance be reconsidered and it was so moved. This motion was lost when Councilors Fitzgerald, Honesssey, Moriarty, Sadler, Chadwick and McFadden voted against it.

During discussion of the ordinance city Clerk Stephen Flynn was asked to explain his salary and other fees. He stated that he receives $2500 as salary and $500 as fees from dog and hunting licenses.

Councilor McFadden, reporting for the ordinance committee, reported adversely on the ordinance to divide the charity department.

On motion of Councilor Sadler the report was accepted and the matter laid on the table.

The council then took up the budget calling first on Chief Edward F. Saunders of the fire department. He spoke particularly of reductions made by the mayor in his estimates for automobile and fire alarm upkeep and the need of a fire tower for which he estimated $2000. He also spoke of the $1000 allowed for new hose, against an estimate of $2000. He said he has already spent $2250 for hose this year and will have to buy 1500 feet for the new Oakland house.

Councilor Lambert asked about the new fire alarm system and the chief said nothing further can be done until new switch-board apparatus is purchased. The whole system would cost about $22,500.

Councilor MacKenzie spoke for the Auditorium commission concerning its budget, but the figures were passed as presented.

When the council began to take up the departments under the board of public service, Chairman Dennis J. Murphy questioned the procedure by saying that it appeared farcical to him. Councilors McFadden and Daly then spoke along the same line, and the former moved a motion to accept the mayor's budget as presented with stipulated reservations, naming certain departments which the council would like to discuss with the mayor in conference. The motion finally prevailed.

Councilor Daly questioned Auditor Daniel E. Martin about the prior review account and asked Charity Supt. Joseph H. Gormley if his department is making any attempt to clean up outstanding accounts against the city represented by state settlements. A year ago these outstanding accounts totaled about $60,000, but in 1923, $10,000 was collected, and Supt. Gormley hopes to finish it up this year.

BE KIND TO ANIMALS

100th Anniversary of First Society for Prevention of Cruelty

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, March 19.—Recognition of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the first society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is being observed by Governor Cox in a proclamation issued today, designating Sunday, April 6, as Humane Sunday, and the six days following as Be Kind to Animals Week. The proclamation reads:

"The present year marks the one hundredth anniversary of the organization in London, England, of the first Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Today in every state of the union there are branches of this society, and it is through the influence of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the 'Be Kind to Animals Week' was first established. Today the appeal is general throughout the United States.

"In fitting recognition of the one hundredth anniversary of this noble endeavor, I appoint Sunday, April 6, 1924, as Humane Sunday, and the week of April 7-12, 1924, as Be Kind to Animals Week.

"During this time, especially, our citizens are asked to make a genuine effort to further this humane cause of kindness to dumb animals."

ATTACK PREFERENTIAL RATES TO U. S. GOODS

LONDON, March 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision to allow preferential railroad rates to American goods shipped in American vessels was greeted with lively interest in British shipping circles, according to the Morning Post correspondent at Liverpool, where the step is declared to be in direct contradiction of the convention recently signed at Geneva and introduced by American delegates.

"The correspondent quotes an unnamed shipping authority as saying that it is 'completely another way of bolstering up the United States shipping board to justify its existence,' adding that while on the face it looks like a very good thing for American shipping, the American exporters, if combined with American vessels, will likely and his business upset. At the same time, according to this authority, there are not enough American ships to meet the demand.

GOULD AND FORMER WIFE IN COURT BATTLE

VERSAILLES, March 19.—Frank J. Gould of New York, and his former wife, Edith Kelly, met in a court today for the 17th time in France. The dancer is claiming half Gould's wealth, which she calculates at $100,000,000, the claim including both his American and French property.

Her argument is that as the French law should be qualified to divorce her, she also be qualified to settle her status as wife. She was married in England, without a marriage settlement, and according to French law, couples married without a settlement, have equal rights of joint possession.

Mr. Gould maintains the dancer has no right to anything of his, that both parties being American citizens, she has no claim on her husband's property, nor does the British marriage law give her any.

The former Mrs. Gould recently was defeated in a case in which her husband sought an injunction preventing her from using the name of Gould for stage purposes, which decision she is now appealing.

SLIGHT FIRE IN ADAMS STREET STORE

An alarm from box 15 at 19.15 o'clock last evening was for a slight blaze in a grocery store conducted by George Macin at 115 Adams street.

The fire started behind one of the counters and was confined to a box which contained, among other articles, several cartons of matches. The blaze was confined to the box and other stock in the store was undamaged. Sergeant James J. Kennedy of the police department conducted an investigation of the fire and removed the partly burned box to the police station. No further investigation has been requested up to the present time. The building in which the store is located is owned by C. Michalopoulos.

LIVING COSTS TAKE TUMBLE

Not Much, About a Quarter for Every $100 Expenditure in February

Meats and Eggs at Lower Prices—Clothing on Rise, Also Rents

(Special to The Sun.)
BOSTON, March 19.—Mr. Every Man's living expenses were reduced in February, as compared with January, but he hasn't noticed it yet he is perhaps to be excused, for statistics show that the reduction was only one-fourth of one percent.

In other words, any head of a family who ordinarily spends $100 per month for his living expenses should have found himself on the 25th day of March with a surplus of 25 cents in his pocket.

All of the reduction was due to lower prices for certain foodstuffs, notably for meats and eggs. It is also noted that fish, milk, cheese, onions, citrus fruit, apples and oatmeal sold in February for prices lower than those charged in January. On the other hand, statistics show that flour, butter, tea, coffee, sugar, corn, cornmeal, bran, rice, potatoes, canned goods and dried beans were slightly higher.

No change was noted in charges for rents, but clothing increased slightly over the figures for the previous month. This was especially true of suits, gloves, men's hosiery, men's underwear, hats and women's hosiery. Slight reductions were effected in charges for shoes, shirts, collars, women's underwear and cotton goods.

An increase in the price of kerosene throughout the state, which was only partially offset by a decrease in the Boston gas rate, resulted in a slight upward movement of the figures for fuel and light.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Successful Raids by Liquor Squad—William Brand Fined $100—Other Cases

As a result of a raid by Sergeant Wren and Officers Alfred J. Conney, William F. Lison and John J. Leahy in a Broadway store last evening, William Brand appeared in district court this morning and paid a fine of $100. Several other bottles containing whiskey were found on the premises.

In a raid yesterday afternoon in a tenement in Warren street, a large still of 100-gallon capacity and various articles of equipment used in the manufacture of illegal liquor were found. An arrest is pending.

Louis Miller was found not guilty of non-support and discharged. His wife, Alice, failed to convince the court of the justifiability of the complaint as the evidence showed her to be living with her husband's mother.

Joseph Bourdon, drunk-and-assault and battery, was continued until March 22.

Vasili Zimolowsky, drunkenness, failed to put in an appearance and was defaulted.

RIOT FOLLOWS LIQUOR RAID

Dry Agents Met With Barrage of Bottles After Seizing Liquor in N. Y. Cafe

100 Diners Join in Attack—Police Rush to Agents' Aid With Drawn Guns

NEW YORK, March 19.—E. C. Yellowley, district dry chief from Washington, and three other prohibition officers, who seized a quantity of beer, wines and whiskey in an early morning raid on a Bronx cafe today were met by a barrage of bottles flung at them by several of the 100 diners in the place, and escaped only when eight policemen stationed at the entrance rushed to their assistance with drawn guns.

The cafe, which was a rendezvous for district politicians, was crowded when the raiders entered. The liquor seized and with a bartender and the cafe manager under arrest, the agents started to leave the premises when the riot began, shilling whistles brought the recruiting police, who quelled the bottle-throwers with their appearance.

LIQUOR CASES BEFORE U. S. COMMISSIONER

Arguments of legal points involved in the arrest of Louis Gould, "suitcase bootlegger," by Policeman William Purdy a few weeks ago, featured the session at the Gotham street court-house for the morning when the United States Commissioner, Richard, Braubach Walsh, presided in the case, the legality of arrest being at issue.

Walsh, Jr., the defendant, and Charles A. Donahue, for the defendant, Patrick Shaurin, charged with illegal sale, asked for a continuance through his attorney, J. P. Parley, and the case was set for preliminary hearing here on March 26.

Alexander Mann, charged with violation of the prohibition act, waived examination and was held in $500 for the federal court.

Another defendant seemed a continuance until Saturday.

MATRIMONIAL

A wedding of considerable interest in professional circles of the state and especially of this city took place last evening at the Benson house, Brookline, when Dr. Siddey Hopper, well known local physician, was united in marriage to Dr. Henry Lightman, popular dentist of this city, by Rabbi Raphael Gold of the Jewish synagogue in Dorchester at 7.30 o'clock.

The bride was attired in a gown of white, ermine de chine and satin and carried a shower bouquet of roses. Miss Ida Lightman, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and wore a dress of American beauty silk and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses. The bridesmaids were Misses Minnie Lightman, Sarah Lightman, Doris Lightman, sisters of the bridegroom, Annie Aronson, and Ida Gordon. They were attended in gowns of pink, blue and orchid and each carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Archibald Bartfield was the best man while the ushers were Mr. Metz, Henry Sakolsky, Hyman Shafer, Dr. Stone and Moses Lightman. Miss Marian Shafer and Miss Evelyn Hopper were flower girls and Frederick Rathor was the page.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Benson house. The rooms were beautifully decorated with palms and rose. Present at the reception were many friends of the couple from Lowell, Boston and other cities of New England.
